

Ford Gains Fame In Veto Overrides

WASHINGTON (AP) — The congressional override of President Ford's veto of the coal-leasing bill makes him the third U.S. president to lose 10 or more veto battles with Congress. President Andrew Johnson suffered the most overrides, Harry S. Truman comes in No. 2 and Ford is No. 3.

Since becoming President on Aug. 9, 1974, Ford has vetoed 54 bills. He has been sustained in 15 showdowns with Congress and has been overridden 10 times, the most recent being Wednesday's override of the coal bill.

That bill sets tighter restrictions on coal leasing and other rights on federal lands and increases from 37.5 per cent to 50 per cent the royalties that go to states with such lands within their boundaries.

Ford had not opposed the higher royalties but said he vetoed the bill because other provisions would require that leased land be put into production within 10 years, permit state governors to block for six months a surface coal-mining lease, and require the Interior Department to survey coal resources on federal lands. Ford said these provisions would decrease production.

Ford's defeat Wednesday was his third this year. Congress earlier overrode his vetoes to enact measures on public works employment, military construction and appropriations for the labor and health, education and welfare departments.

Democrats cheered the surprisingly decisive override of the coal-leasing bill veto and claimed it showed evidence that "the people are counting on us."

The House vote was 316 to 85 to override. The Senate had acted a day earlier, voting 76 to 17 to override.

House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said the House vote shows that "our congressional leadership continues to win against the negativism and do-nothing policies of the administration."

Rep. John J. McFall, D-Calif., the party whip in charge of turning out the vote, had predicted a close contest for the two-thirds majority necessary for an override.

As it turned out, Democratic ranks were almost solid — 249 to 16 to override. Republicans split, 67 to override, 69 to sustain. The veto was overridden with 48 votes to spare.

Andrew Johnson, the recordholder, was beaten 15 times during a four-year presidency that produced 29 vetoes. Truman was overridden 12 times on 250 vetoes in eight years.

Ford is seventh on the list of presidents with the most vetoes — behind Franklin D. Roosevelt with 635 spanning 12 years, Grover Cleveland 584, Truman 250, Dwight D. Eisenhower 181, U.S. Grant 93 and Theodore Roosevelt 82.

From George Washington to Ford, there have been 37 presidents, 94 congresses, 2,346 vetoes and 88 overrides.

Damage In Flood Hits $50 Million

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) — As survivors of the Big Thompson Canyon flood began burying their dead, the continuing search for bodies held priority over cleanup operations in the devastated Colorado Rockies vacation area.

Lebanon Truce Holds

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A new cease-fire was declared in the Lebanese civil war today, and five hours after the deadline a Palestinian spokesman said only minor volleys of gunfire marred the truce in Beirut.

"A few mortar shells also were lobbed into the Tal Zaatar Palestinian refugee camp, killing one woman," the spokesman said. "But no serious threat has occurred so far to the truce."

A Christian radio station reported no truce violations in any part of Lebanon.

The latest of more than 50 truces in the 16-month-old war went into effect after a night of heavy fighting in which rightwing Christian forces claimed they had conquered the Moslem slum of Nabaa in eastern Beirut, not far from Tal Zaatar.

"The so-called nationalist forces in Nabaa have surrendered," said a spokesman for the Christian Phalange party. "Mop-up operations were completed before the new cease-fire went into effect."

But leftist leaders insisted fighting was still raging from house to house in Nabaa. They appealed to Arab peacekeeping forces to intervene and "stop the Fascist invasion of Nabaa."

Nabaa and Tal Zaatar, the besieged Palestinian refugee camp, were the last enclaves held by the leftist Lebanese Moslems and their Palestinian allies in the Christian half of the capital.

The Palestinians were still holding out in Tal Zaatar. But the Christian siege has neutralized the threat of the camp's guns to the highways from Beirut to the Christian hinterland northeast of the capital.

The International Red Cross, after evacuating 334 wounded from Tal Zaatar Tuesday and Wednesday, suspended its efforts for at least a day because sniper bullets hit one of its cars Wednesday and shells exploded near a truckload of wounded.

The firing wounded no one, but "we cannot take it lightly," a Red Cross spokesman said.

He said the Red Cross hoped to resume the evacuations after new consultations with the warring factions. Red Cross workers said privately that the sniper fire came from within the camp.

An estimated 89 persons were reported killed and 154 wounded in fighting during the night before the cease-fire.

A truce committee of Syrians, Lebanese and Palestinians was to meet later today with representatives of the Arab League at Sofar, 18 miles east of Beirut, to review the progress of the cease-fire.

The agreement calls for Arab League peacekeeping troops to man buffer zones between the Moslem and Christian sectors of Beirut within 48 hours.

The capital's airport, closed since June 17, is to reopen for international traffic before Aug. 15, and Arab League forces are to take control of all roads to the airport from the Palestinians.

Lori Neal Claims Champion Of Junior Fair Steer Show

GRAND CHAMPION STEER — Lori Neal Fair. Presenting the trophy are Karen Gifford, Logan Elm FFA Queen; Terry Hampton, King of the Fair; and Ann Congrove, 1976 Fair Queen.

But this year will be a little more satisfying for her.

The steer will be the first sold tonight at 6 p.m.

Reagan Loses 2 Delegates

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Ronald Reagan's choice of Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., as his vice presidential running mate has apparently cost him two Kentucky delegates to the Republican National Convention.

A copyrighted survey in the Louisville Courier-Journal indicates that two former Reagan delegates are now uncommitted because of Reagan's appeal to the GOP left in his choice of the liberal Pennsylvania senator.

Kentucky will send 37 delegates to the GOP national convention later this month in Kansas City. State law dictates that on the first ballot, 19 of those votes will be cast for President Ford, with 18 going to Reagan in accordance with the outcome of the May 25 presidential primary. The delegates are free to change their votes on succeeding ballots.

According to the latest survey, Reagan now holds claim to 24 second ballot delegates, eight are for Ford, four are uncommitted and one calls himself "almost uncommitted."

Gas Boost Blocked

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Public Utility Commission voted 3-2 Wednesday to block Columbia Gas Co., Pittsburgh, from boosting some rates by 17.6 cents a day beginning Thursday.

The PUC suspended the $21 million annual rate increase pending investigation and hearings.

The 17.6-cents increase would have been for home heating customers. Nonheating customers were due a 4.9 cent a day hike.

PUC Chairman Louis J. Carter and Commissioner Michael Johnson supported the motion to suspend by Commissioner Helen O'Bannon.

Commissioners McGirr Kelly and Robert K. Bloom were opposed. Kelly said he favored a staff recommendation to allow a first step $4.1 million increase and suspension of the rest.

The company, which got its last increase in 1974, serves 330,000 customers in 26 Pennsylvania counties.

Probers Narrow Disease Cause

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Medical researchers seeking to identify the disease which has killed 22 persons have narrowed down its likely cause but say they still do not know what it is — and may never know.

Further clues to the flu-like "legionnaire's disease" may come today when first results are available from tests being conducted behind sealed doors at the state health laboratories in Philadelphia.

Until the disease is identified, health officials said there is little they can do. Treatments or vaccines must await identification even though state officials have prepared the machinery for a massive inoculation program should it be necessary.

"I've never seen anything like it," said Jay Satz, the top disease expert in the state health department. "It'll take time. In fact, we may never find it."

A 23rd death from the disease was reported by a Philadelphia hospital Wednesday, but state officials had not yet attributed it to the illness.

State health officials reported Wednesday that 130 persons were hospitalized with confirmed cases of the disease. Like those who died, all attended or had some connection with a state American Legion convention which drew 10,000 people to Philadelphia two weeks ago.

They also reported there was still no indication of secondary spread of the disease to family members or others who came in contact with the victims. None of the hospitalized victims have yet been released.

There were reports of the disease in New Jersey and New York, but they involved people who had attended or had some contact with the Legion convention.

The federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta reported Wednesday that initial tests there indicated the disease was probably the result of a virus, fungus or toxic substance.

Researchers there ruled out plague and Lassa fever, a highly contagious African disease. They also ruled out most bacterial diseases.

Swine flu was said to still be a possibility, and Congress was pushing toward passage of legislation to clear the way for the nationwide swine-flu immunization program.

"We cannot say it is swine influenza or say that it is not," said Dr. David J. Sencer, director of the Center for Disease Control. "Each day that goes by without a spread from family to community makes us rest easier that it is not swine flu. But it is still too early to say."

In Philadelphia, meanwhile, about 400 calls an hour were coming in to a hotline set up at City Hall. Spokesmen said the callers "aren't panicking, but they're apprehensive and concerned."

The disease has not reduced attendance at the 41st International Eucharistic Conference, a worldwide gathering of Catholics expected to attract one million people before it ends Sunday, when President Ford is scheduled to attend.

However, the American Legion announced in Washington that it was canceling a planned trip to Philadelphia today by 600 boys and girls.

Weather

Partly cloudy with a chance of showers or thunderstorms today, tonight and Friday. High today in the low 80s, low tonight in the middle 60s with a high Friday in the upper 70s. Chances of precipitation, 40 per cent today and 70 per cent tonight and Friday. Wednesday's high was 82 with a low during the night of 62.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, showing signs of losing the upward energy it displayed earlier in the week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off a fraction in early trading. Gainers took a slight lead over losers in the over-all count of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted some disappointment over the market's late showing Wednesday, when prices gave up most of an early gain.

Today's prices included Olin Corp., down 1/8 at 40 1/2; Winnebago, off 1/8 at 6 1/2; and Joy Manufacturing, unchanged at 46 1/4.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average posted a 1.95 gain to 992.28.

Advances held a 5-3 edge on declines among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index added .17 to 55.78.

Big Board volume reached a three-week high at 20.65 million shares.

Thieves Take Radio From Plant Office

Clarence Hancher Jr., 1039 Lynwood Ave., told Sheriff's deputies that someone broke into the Earnhart Hill Sewage Plant Office off Route 23 sometime between 4 p.m. Tuesday and 7 a.m. Wednesday.

The thieves took a portable AM-FM radio belonging to Hancher. The radio was valued at $40.

According to Deputy Nick Franklin's report, the thieves gained entry to the building by breaking the window on the north side and cutting the screen. Damage was set at $50.

Paul Ertel, Columbus, reported that thieves entered his property near Winchester Road Wednesday and stole a television set from a house on the property.

The set was valued at $150.

The culprits gained entry by throwing a piece of firewood through a window. Deputy Larry Kellenberger set damage to the windows at $30.

Fred G. Lambert, 108 W. Front St., New Holland, told Sheriff's deputies that he observed two subjects take a bicycle from his property 10 p.m. Wednesday.

Lambert gave chase when the subjects fled.

Both persons were quickly apprehended by New Holland Marshall Frank Wood and turned over to Sheriff's Deputies.

Charged with petty theft is Ronald E. Warnock, 19, London. The Sheriff's office has also filed charges against a juvenile in the case.

The Sheriff's department reported the attempted theft of a woman's purse from the Pickaway County Fair at 1:05 a.m. Thursday.

According to the report, Mrs. Mary Hiler, New Washington, Ohio, was sitting in the bleachers at the fairgrounds with her husband and some friends, when one of the men noticed two juvenile boys take Mrs. Hiler's purse from the step of the bleachers.

Karl Hiler and the men chased and caught the juveniles and held them until deputies arrived. Mrs. Hiler's purse contained two checkbooks with blank checks, eight credit cards, and $105.45 in cash.

Both juveniles have been charged with grand theft.

The sheriff's department investigated a grease fire at the Harris residence at 2460 Kingston Pike. Circleville firemen extinguished the blaze.

The kitchen area sustained considerable fire and smoke damage, but no injuries were reported.

Battle Tank Cooperation Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and West Germany are going to cooperate on construction of a new million dollar battle tank, although the move will drive up the cost of each tank by 15 per cent.

The tanks will be used by NATO troops in Europe, and are being designed to blunt the threat from a new Soviet tank planned for the Warsaw Pact nations, Army Secretary Martin Hoffman said Wednesday.

He said a German-designed 120-millimeter gun and a U.S.-designed turbine engine will be used in both the U.S. XM1 tank and the West German Leopard II. Originally, the U.S. Army planned to choose between the tanks after staging a face-off between test models.

That competition will still be held starting this fall at the Army's Aberdeen Proving Ground in Maryland, Hoffman said, but the results will just be used to aid the drive toward standardization.

Hoffman acknowledged that the joint production will drive up costs of each $1.08 million tank by 15 per cent.

With the Army planning to purchase 3,325 new tanks, that could amount to an added cost of more than $500 million.

But Hoffman said standardization will afford greater battlefield effectiveness for NATO's tanks.

"We need to field the next generation of tanks as fast as we can to meet the threat" from the Warsaw Pact nations, said Hoffman.

He forecast a four-month delay in the U.S. tank development program as a result of the new moves toward "commonality" of engines, guns, fuel, ammunition, transmissions, tracks and fire control equipment.

Two U.S. firms, General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp., have been developing competing designs of the XM1 tank.

The Army still intends to choose between a General Motors design with a diesel engine and a Chrysler design with a gas turbine engine.

Battle Tank Cooperation Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's floor manager for the Republican National Convention predicted today that the party's presidential nominee will be chosen without the bitterness of previously contested GOP conventions.

Sen. Robert Griffin of Michigan said with 12 days to go before the convention opens in Kansas City all signs are for "a lot more harmony and togetherness ... than newsmen might like or expect."

He predicted a first ballot victory for Ford, and said Ronald Reagan's campaign officials have indicated they probably will not use procedural issues to deny the President delegates committed to him under laws in 19 states.

At a breakfast meeting with reporters, Griffin also said, "At this point there don't seem to be any real battles shaping up on the platform."

Griffin said, "There seems to be real effort on both sides to avoid dramatizing the differences among Republicans rather than focus on differences with Republicans, which is what the platform is for."

Without elaboration, Griffin said, "I think the result (Ford's nomination) is going to be pretty obvious before the gavel comes down in Kansas City."

Connally Lashes Out At Republican Critics

CLEVELAND (AP) — Former Texas Gov. John B. Connally Jr. lashed out Wednesday night at Republicans who want to keep him off the party's vice presidential ticket on grounds that he is tainted by Watergate.

U.S. Rep. William S. Cohen, R-Maine, said in Washington that even though Connally was acquitted on a charge of taking a bribe in a milk bribe scandal, putting him on the ticket as President Ford's running mate would resurrect Watergate.

Responding to statements by Cohen and U.S. Rep. Thomas Railsback, R-Ill., Connally told a news conference he "wasn't in any way involved in Watergate, and if they implied that I was, they are guilty of the grossest kind of misconduct."

"I'm not going to stand by, vice presidential prospects or not, and let Mr. Railsback or Mr. Cohen besmirch me any longer," Connally continued.

Railsback and Cohen were members of the House Judiciary Committee during impeachment proceedings against former President Richard M. Nixon.

They have told White House aides they should review tapes of White House conversations that led to the raising of milk price supports.

Connally said Cohen's and Railsback's actions resembled totalitarian tactics and told the news conference he was not in the government at the time the Watergate burglary occurred and was on a round-the-world tour at the time.

"I'm not running for anything, and if it were offered to me I'm not sure I'd take it," said Connally, who was in Cleveland to speak at a fundraising dinner.

While denying that he was seeking the job, Connally said his service in Washington, his experience in the business world, his three terms as Texas governor and his appeal on the Republican banquet circuit would make him a strong candidate.

Connally praised Ford for helping the economy and keeping the United States out of overseas involvements, but he was less enthusiastic about Ford's political acumen and acknowledged that Ford's campaign had made mistakes in the battle against former Calif. Gov. Ronald Reagan.

He said if he were on the ticket he would urge a shakeup in the Ford campaign. He didn't say who he would replace on the campaign staff.

Police Probe Reports Of Prowlers

Circleville Police investigated two prowler reports Wednesday evening.

Gilbert Grooms, 150 E. Main St. returned home with his wife at 9:37 p.m. and noticed that the lock on the door of his body shop had been tampered with, and the shop had been broken into. Patrolman Pontious and Fletcher were sent to investigate and found no one in the building. Nothing had been taken, according to the police report.

Geneva Woodward, 319 E. Main St. reported to police that she heard a noise downstairs at her back door around 9:12 p.m. When she went downstairs, she saw two subjects running toward Main Street. Police discovered that the screen in Mrs. Woodward's storm door had been cut approximately 10 inches near the handle, and the door had been unlocked.

Bill Weldon, 410 S. Court St. told police at 2:20 p.m. Wednesday that someone had taken a statue from the grave of his great aunt. The incident took place in Forest Cemetery.

Roger D. Konkle reported the theft of a box of motorcycle parts from his car, parked on the rear of his property at 898 S. Court St. Konkle told police that he parked the car there on July 28, and noticed the parts missing Wednesday. Thieves had entered the car from the passenger side door.

Robert Boysel, 343 E. Ohio St. told police that when he went to feed his rabbits Tuesday he found that one had been killed. The animal had been stabbed several times with a sharp object.

Local Woman Writes Book

Dr. Faye Dix Marshall, a former Pickaway Countian, has written a book entitled "Managing the Modern School Library."

Mrs. Marshall is the daughter of Lana Williamson Dix, who is presently a resident of Pickaway Manor, and George E. Dix. Her father was an agriculture teacher at Laurelville for many years and later taught in the Amanda School system. He also served as an advisor for the Future Farmers of America fruit tree spraying service.

Married to the Rev. Dr. Robert H. Marshall, the author is presently residing in Austin, Texas. She received her masters degree in library science from the University of Toledo and has over 10 years experience as a public school librarian.

Her book is a source for the librarian containing information on every subject from obtaining free library materials to points on how to keep the shelves attractive. It is published by the Parker Publishing Company, West Nyack, N.Y.

In addition to library topics, Dr. Marshall also writes on a variety of subjects including psychology, religion, inspiration and philosophical fiction.

Hedges Chapel United Methodist Church will be sponsoring an old fashioned ice cream social to be held at the church on Sunday. Hours will be from 4 to 7 p.m. Included on the menu will be homemade ice cream, chicken and ham sandwiches, cookies, tea and lemonade.

There will also be a country store with items to be sold.

Mrs. Hattie Rife would like to thank everyone who remembered her on her 94th birthday with cards and gifts. She received over 70 cards.

She would also like to thank the relatives and friends who attended her birthday dinner last Sunday at the Pickaway Arms. She really enjoyed seeing so many former Ashville people.

The South Bloomfield Booster Club will be having its annual yard sale on Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the yard of Webster's Carry-out.

The neighbors and friends of the Gale Sawyer family on Cromley Street wish to extend their deepest sympathy to Mrs. Sawyer on the death of her brother, Lee A. Fiser, of Columbus on July 23.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Walden Sherman held a gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Crookham, Kim and Kathy on July 25. Those attending in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Sherman and the Crookhams were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Sherman of Wagoner, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sherman, Cathy and Randy of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. William Sherman and Brent; Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Sherman, Sue, Nancy and David; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sherman, Donna and Donald; Mrs. Phyllis Gernovich; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sherman, Lisa and Renee; Mrs. Georgia Griffith and Margaret; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Neff and Bruce; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Althaus, Linda, Terry, Ricki and Rhonda; Mr. and Mrs. Omar Abner, Kyle and John; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Martin; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Caplinger and Derek; Mrs. Armilda Iden, Rodney, Troy, Jolene and Darnette and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Watkins.

A pair of girl's eye glasses have been found at the Village Church. These were left there during the 4th of July celebration or around that time. They may be returned to the owner by calling the pastor, the Rev. Starling Morrow.

David McCain will be celebrating his 94th birthday on Monday. Cards would be appreciated by him I'm sure.

On Sunday McCain was the dinner guest of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McCain of Circleville and on Friday was visited by Paul McCain of Grove City.

Bob Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Smith, is recuperating at the home of his parents following a motorcycle accident. The accident occurred on July 25 when he lost control of his cycle and received abrasions on the left side of his body. He was taken to Doctors Hospital,

West, following the accident.

On July 26 he was taken to Mercy Hospital by the Harrison Township Emergency Squad for treatment of an antibiotic reaction.

Randy Wharton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wharton, underwent arm surgery in Doctors Hospital, West, last week.

Through the efforts of the UMYF the Village United Methodist Church now has a new bulletin board-sign. The Youth members have been working quite hard to make the necessary money to purchase the sign. They were assisted by leaders Dick and Clarabelle Pobst and Brenda and Dave Gibson. Also helping erect the sign and with the many projects of the group were Marge and Cy Stickel.

Following the church worship service last Sunday the group served cookies, punch and coffee to the congregation in dedication of the sign. These young people are to be congratulated, along with their advisors.

The Everfaithful Sunday School Class of the Zion United Methodist Church will again have a stand at the annual Farmer's and Merchant's Market on Aug. 18. They will be featuring baked goods, with miscellaneous items on sale also.

Floyd Gray, the wrestling coach of Teays Valley High School, underwent surgery last week at Beth Israel Hospital in Boston. He underwent a 21-hour operation for the removal of a blood clot from the brain. During this time a total of 154 units of blood were used.

If you missed the bloodmobile unit at Circleville this week you may make donations in Gray's name at the Blood Center in Columbus.

Wildlife Needs Help

Conservationists once were worried that the North American bison, otherwise known as the buffalo, was becoming extinct. Great numbers of the beasts were killed during the nineteenth century for skins, food and sport. Although now largely contained on government-protected lands, the bison has recovered to the point where its herds are deliberately thinned by hunters.

good fortune of the bison is an indication of the power of aroused public demands for conservation, other wildlife is in need of publicity. Conservationists estimate more than 50 species of wildlife which formerly roamed this land in plentiful numbers are now dangerously close to annihilation.

Many species of animals and birds have been irretrievably lost to this generation and all future peoples. History does not record all the creatures which once inhabited the very spots now supporting large cities, lakes and farms.

Nothing can be done to bring back these denizens. The ranks of other inhabitants of the earth seem destined to diminish as the human population grows unless a concerted effort is made to provide sanctuaries.

Let There Be Light

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Charles T. Clift, director of the Syracuse (N.Y.) Burnett Park Zoo, was having trouble with some of his animals. They had finicky appetites and, worse, seemed disinterested in sex. The life-blood of zoos, of course, is a turnover of animals - and it's accomplished much cheaper by procreation than acquisition.

Clift's problems were solved after he read about experiments in lighting being conducted in animal and horticultural labs, where seeming "miracles" were taking place when sickly subjects were placed under the type of fluorescents that simulate natural sunlight.

Sunlight-simulating tubes that were installed throughout the zoo quickly vitalized the critters into building love nests. "The zoo turned into a veritable maternity ward," with a litter of cougars, eight baby lambs, 20 doe, one husky bear cub, a new mini-kangaroo, a cuddly infant chimp, "and even a partridge. In a pear tree, of course. The tree also thrives."

Across the country, people who deal with animals and plants are discovering what God knew all along - sunlight is vital to the growth of all things great and small. And now that major companies are making lamps that cover the full spectrum of the sun's rays (they're usually called "full-spectrum lamps," matter of fact), they are being used often in enclosed areas of laboratories, zoos and plant nurseries. According to the Duro-Lite Home Lighting Institute, which is at the forefront of the simulated-sunlight movement (its fluorescent is called the Vita-Lite), the new lamps can be lifesavers even in the home... if you can get your sick dog or lethargic cat to sit still under their glow.

Almost every animal needs light to thrive, even as flowers and vegetables do. The length of time, intensity and wavelength distribution of light energy affects the way buds set, flowers open, the sex of a fruit and the rate of maturation. In the same way, light affects insects, fish, birds and larger animals.

In the past couple of years, independent researchers have been studying the value of simulated light on animals removed from their natural habitats, and on pets who can't be outdoors enough or who live in climates that offer insufficient sunshine.

Josef Laszlo of the Reptile Department of the Houston Zoo (he's now with the San Diego Zoo) found that reptiles were turning a scornful eye on dinner under the standard cool white fluorescents habitually used by zoos. He found that, by substituting full-spectrum lamps, the vipers were turned on to food.

Not only that, Laszlo saw the "miraculous" revival of one snake. His once-healthy Trimeresurus trigonocephalus snake had lapsed into lethargy and refused food and was on the brink of death. When a 15-watt full-spectrum fluorescent was mounted in an open-type fixture above the floor of his cage, the snake - within three days - began vibrating its tail when touched, "and graciously began accepting mice."

At New York's famed Bronx Zoo, joy came to the Aquatic Bird House. Ornithologist Don Brunning bought the sun-simulating lamps, which produced an intensity of approximately 100-foot candles, and installed them in the bird house to induce the tufted puffins to puff their tufts. They developed adult plumage and laid eggs, which hatched into baby tufted puffins (thank heavens, it wasn't anything else). In fact, all birds tended to respond sexily to the lights.

Not only sex and appetite, but bone structure improves with sunlight effects. Researchers at the University of the Pacific, Tufts and the V.A. Out-Patient Clinic in Boston have found that when male golden hamsters are raised under cool white fluorescent, they have five times as much dental decay and reproductive gland retardation as hamsters from the same litter (and on the same diet) raised under Vita-Lites.

The research on animals and plants is conclusive.

The next step is to try man on a full-spectrum light diet.

Auto Talks Center On Seniority

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers demanded stronger seniority rights for older workers and reduced subcontracting of work done by skilled tradesmen in contract demands presented Tuesday to Chrysler Corp. The union also wants contract language making it easier for older workers to transfer from manual labor jobs to easier posts, such as inspections, said UAW Vice President Douglas Fraser.

While Fraser admitted such a policy could cause some inefficiencies at auto plants, he added, "So be it. The top priority should be the well-being of the human being."

The union also said it wants to force Chrysler to prepare detailed cost-benefit presentations on all proposed subcontracting of tool and die work before those jobs can be let to outside shops.

Tuesday's proposal calls for the union to be given a chance to argue its capabilities to do such work competitively. Standards written into the contract would determine whether the work would be sent out, and the union wants to be able to impose penalties on the company when those standards are not met.

In the 1973 contract which expires in mid-September, the auto companies agreed to make such presentations before farming out maintenance and construction work. But there are no binding standards which can stop the work from going out.

At Chrysler, the UAW won the right to strike over subcontracting of maintenance and construction work. At General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co., such after-the-fact disputes must be submitted to an umpire before a strike can be authorized.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, August 5, the 218th day of 1976. There are 148 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in History:

On this date in 1963, the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union signed a treaty outlawing nuclear tests in the atmosphere, under water and in space.

On this date—

In 1884, the cornerstone of the Statue of Liberty was laid at the entrance to New York Harbor.

In 1962, the movie star, Marilyn Monroe, was found dead in her Los Angeles home.

Ten years ago: Three European scientists who had pioneered in atom-splitting research were named to share the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission Fermi Award.

One year ago: A Massachusetts court ordered reinstatement of Alger Hiss as a member of the bar. He had been disbarred in 1952 after being convicted of perjury in denying he had delivered State Department documents by Whittaker Chambers, a confessed Soviet spy courier.

Today's birthdays: The first man to set foot on the moon, Neil Armstrong, is 46 years old. Movie director John Huston is 70.

Thought for today: There is no substitute for hard work — Thomas Edison, American inventor, 1847-1931. Bicentennial footnote: 200 years ago today, an adviser to General George Washington proposed that he withdraw his army from New York and burn the city to deprive British attackers of a base of operations.

Editions Of The Past

Hurschel Brumfield, a 22-year-old Circleville policeman, resigned unexpectedly. No reason was given for the action by Brumfield or Chief of Police Elmer Merriman.

A search for a plane which reportedly crashed in western Fairfield County turned out to be a false alarm, but not until the rescue effort had reached near comic proportions. A caravan of Sheriff's Deputies from three counties, emergency equipment from Lockbourne Air Force Base, and dozens of thrill seekers raced madly looking for the plane without any luck.

Children lost in Circleville and found by city police were to receive free ice cream while waiting for their parents. The plan was sponsored by a national ice cream concern.

Despite repeated assertions of little or no progress in peace talks, speculation stirred when it was announced that negotiations in the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Company strike would not resume for several days. The strike, which crippled 24 Ohio counties including Pickaway, was in its 23rd day.

Dan, the faithful horse retired in 1955 after many years of service pulling an ice wagon around the city, passed on to whatever glory awaits all friendly Dobbins. The 34-year-old grey horse was a familiar sight to local residents, grazing in the pasture beside the ice plant on Island Road.

"Remember when we used to save our money to go on a vacation instead of to go out to dinner?"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is there no way to control the misleading medical information that is casually handed out on radio and television by so-called "experts" who are not doctors, or even trained professionals?

Recently on TV, four women were being interviewed about hormone injections, birth control pills and the value of an only child family. I've never heard so much misinformation. It must certainly disturb other readers besides myself.

Mrs. H. T., Penn.

Unfortunately, some programs are created with the main objective of capturing the attention of viewers rather than providing sound medical advice.

All of us have known people who believe that, having recovered from a particular disease, they are automatically authorities on that disorder.

I have listened with dismay and have heard 16-year-old post-heroin addicts speak with the authority of sociologists about the cause, the prevention and the cure of drug addiction.

All of us have heard the person who, after a few sessions with a psychotherapist, expounds about the ego, the id, the superego, guilt, obsession, hostility and aggression.

They "authoritatively" know the advantages of Freudian, Jungian and Adlerian schools of psychotherapy and will "fight to the death" with anyone who has the temerity to dispute them.

And, on the other side of the coin, there are those who deny the value of any kind of psychotherapy simply because their own experience was not a satisfactory one.

I recently heard a round table discussion on television advocating the advantages of marital infidelity. It was a shocking display of the exploitation of a medium that deserves better control by local and Federal agencies.

There are rigid rules of broadcasting to protect us from misinformation about medicine, health and scientific material. Most experts adhere to these rules and do, indeed, give vital, hopeful and correct information to viewers.

Some, however, in an effort to deal with the spectacular, will depart from those rules, violate them and still somehow stay within the framework of the law.

Medical information that vitally affects the viewer is too precious to be accepted without question. The only way that a viewer can possibly have this information evaluated for him is to bring it to the attention of his own doctor.

Only in this way can we be protected from the overenthusiasm of those self-made "authorities."

Auto Industry Investigation Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government regulators are going to scrutinize the auto industry's economic structure in what may be the first skirmish in an antitrust battle against the U.S. auto giants, General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

The Federal Trade Commission announced Tuesday that it is proceeding with a full-scale probe that its staff called for last November. The agency said it has cleared the action with the Justice Department.

The investigation itself is expected to be time-consuming, and if the government finally decides to file antitrust charges, a court battle is certain to stretch on for years.

The Justice Department will not be directly involved in the probe, but if the FTC develops a criminal case against the automakers, Justice Department officials will move in. The FTC is empowered to bring only civil cases.

In Detroit, the automakers denounced the latest government action, which climaxes sporadic federal attempts over the years to challenge the bigness of the "Big Three."

General Motors Chairman Thomas A. Murphy, whose company controls more than half the U.S. auto market and is considered the prime target of any antitrust effort, declared in a statement:

"After decades of almost constant investigation by the Congress and the antitrust agencies into every facet of the American auto industry, it seems that we will be called upon to demonstrate once again that the business is intensely competitive and operating in accordance with the law. We expect to do so, but deplore the waste of public and private resources that the task will entail."

Ford President Lee A. Iacocca called the FTC decision "unfortunate and unnecessary."

The Justice Department itself was on the verge of launching a major antitrust attack against GM in 1968, but dropped the suit because of a lack of support from the incoming Nixon administration.

The Justice Department is already waging protracted antitrust battles against two other titans of American industry, IBM and American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The FTC announcement came on the heels of an FTC judge's rejection on Monday of a staff recommendation to force AT&T to divest its manufacturing subsidiary, Western Electric.

The FTC said the probe would focus on "the economic structure of the American automobile industry, of the economic performance of firms, both domestic and foreign, engaged in the manufacture and distribution of automobiles."

"Among the matters to be investigated are pricing policies, scale economics, vertical integration and automobile distribution practices," its terse statement said.

The FTC announcement stressed that "the existence of an investigation does not imply that violations of law have occurred."

Alf Landon's Political Words Of 1936 Re-Echo

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — "Mounting debts and increasing taxes constitute a threat ... They absorb the funds that might be used to create new things or to reduce the cost of present goods." The words sound as though they could come from this year's political campaign. They do not, however.

They were spoken 40 years ago by Alf M. Landon, then governor of Kansas, as he formally accepted the Republican nomination for president on July 23.

"There now has appeared in high places ... a new and dangerous impulse," Landon said at another point in his speech. "This is the impulse to take away and lodge in the Chief Executive without the people's consent, the powers which they have kept in their state governments or which they have reserved in themselves."

"In its ultimate effect upon the welfare of the whole people, this then is the most important question before us: Shall we continue to delegate more and more power to the Chief Executive or do we desire to preserve the American form of government?"

Landon, who will be 89 in September, said in an interview that the memories of that hot July night are still vivid.

"I felt the burden of the heavy responsibilities I was assuming; whether I had done a creditable job in outlining the issues which I intended to define more fully later, and which I believed meant so much to the future of our country," Landon said.

"I never worked so hard on a speech. I don't think I finished it until the night before."

"But the two main issues I outlined are still major issues facing our country today ... unlimited inflation resulting from deficit spending and the enormous increase in the size and power of the federal government..."

Landon lost the election. President Franklin D. Roosevelt was re-elected to his second term by a landslide.

Landon's acceptance speech came six weeks after he had been nominated by the Republican National Convention.

Special trains brought Republicans and friends to Topeka from across Kansas and surrounding states.

There was one of the biggest parades Topeka had ever seen.

The parade started at 4 p.m. in 104-degree heat. Floats, military units and more than 100 bands and drum and bugle corps headed south on the main business street in downtown Topeka, then headed west into the blazing afternoon sun on the street immediately south of the Statehouse grounds.

The notification ceremony and acceptance speech began at 8:30 p.m. on the south steps of the Kansas Capitol. The temperature still read 95 degrees.

"I don't remember the heat, I was too busy with other things," Landon said.

"It was exciting, particularly the parade and the enormous crowd."

Newspaper estimates placed the crowd at close to 100,000.

Following the ceremony and speech, there was a fireworks display on the Statehouse grounds. Then the special trains began pulling out of Topeka on their return trips.

Other passages from the 1936 Landon address also might come from today's campaign oratory. They included:

—"If we are to go forward permanently, it must be with a united nation — not a people torn by appeals to prejudice and divided by class feeling."

—"... The primary need still is jobs for the unemployed."

—"We must be freed from incessant governmental intimidation and hostility. We must be freed from excessive expenditures and crippling taxation. We must be freed from the effects of an arbitrary and uncertain monetary policy. And, through a vigorous enforcement of the antitrust laws, we must be freed from private monopolistic controls."

—"Let me emphasize that, while we propose to follow a policy of economy in government expenditures, those who need relief will get it."

—"By its policies the administration has taken the American farmer out of foreign markets..."

—"I shall cooperate wholeheartedly with Congress in an efficient reorganization of the numerous government agencies, to get rid of those that are not necessary, to eliminate duplication, to insure better administration and to save the taxpayer's money."

Group Sells State Products

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A small state office with 14 employees and a $500,000 annual budget is taking on the world — to sell Ohio products and recruit foreign firms.

"The challenge of this office is you are working for both business and government," said Charles P. Bolton, manager of the Ohio Office of International Trade.

Economics, labor and politics around the world play an important part in the office's activities.

In addition to being economists and understanding corporate business practices, staffers must be multilingual and comprehend government bureaucracy.

The office has five professional staffers and three secretaries in the Department of Economic and Community Development in Columbus. Two European offices—located at Dusseldorf, Germany and Brussels, Belgium—each have two professionals and a secretary.

Another trade office will open this year in Japan with a professional and a secretary.

The international trade office has two main functions—encouraging export of Ohio products abroad and recruiting foreign offices and manufacturing plants to Ohio.

To help Ohio companies export, Bolton said the office:

—Helps find foreign distributors to market Ohio products. At no cost, the office helps determine the marketability of products. It will publish a notice of the desire to have the product distributed and list it by standard industrial classification codes in the overseas Ohio trade newsletters.

—Develops trade leads through business contacts with foreign businessmen and commercial offices of American embassies.

—Represents for a fee Ohio companies at trade fairs. This year Ohio companies were represented at a health care equipment fair in Stockholm, Sweden. Each firm paid $200 compared to $2,000 it would have cost to send their representatives.

—Organizes trade missions. Gov. James A. Rhodes has led missions to Europe and Asia, and in October will conduct another mission to Japan, Hong Kong and Singapore. Businessmen can meet with foreign officials and business leaders.

To help attract foreign investors to Ohio the office:

—Conducts tours of Ohio sites for foreign businessmen. Sites are selected after the general requirements, such as energy, transportation and labor, are known.

—Recruits at trade shows, trade missions and through regular contacts with foreign offices.

Farmers Remain 'Soldiers Of Soil'

MADISON, Ohio (AP) — The ranks are thinning but farmers Perry and Phyllis Quayle remain steadfast "soldiers of the soil."

"Farmers are probably closer to God," said the 52-year-old Lake County resident. "You are soldiers of the soil and you realize you don't do it by yourself. You realize you are dependent on the weather."

Quayle reluctantly gave up his dairy operation when two of his six sons left home. He grows 17 acres of grapes and sells grain and hay to horse owners. Quayle owns 80 acres of land and farms a total of 125.

None of his children has indicated interest in maintaining the family operation, which the Quayles credit to the community lifestyle.

"Of course we don't live in a farm community anymore," Quayle said. "Today most farmers raise grapes and have jobs off the farm, too."

COMMON PLEAS COURT, PROBATE DIVISION NOTICE

All interested parties are hereby notified that the following Executors have filed their inventories and appraisements in the Common Pleas Court, Probate Division, Pickaway County, Ohio:

No. 76-26606 Helen R. Kuhlwein, Executrix of the estate of Paul L. Kuhlwein, deceased.

No. 76-26623 Harrison Johnston, Executor of the estate of Kathryn Lugenbeel, deceased.

And that said inventories and appraisements will be for hearing and settlement before the Court on Monday, August 16th, 1976, at 9 o'clock A.M. Exceptions to said inventories, if any, must be filed herein on or before August 10, 1976.

"For as large a family as we had, I never thought the grocery bills were exorbitant," she said. "The kids say I make the best grape jelly in the whole, wide world."

"The best thing about a farm child is the mother never invents busy work for them...there is always something they had to do," Mrs. Quayle added.

"Farmers have to be eternal optimists. If you have a bad year, you think next year will be better," said Quayle, who was born in the house where he lives. "We didn't have that enormous struggle to start. Today it is almost impossible to begin a farm."

Both are active in the farm bureau where Quayle is president, and Mrs. Quayle is a board member and leads

Miss Deborah Ann Davis Bride Of Randall Thompson

MR. AND MRS. RANDALL THOMPSON

The marriage of Miss Deborah Ann Davis and Mr. Randall H. Thompson took place 7:30 p.m., July 16, in the First Church of Christ in Christian Union.

The Rev. David Cyrus performed the double ring service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Davis, 622 Renick Ave., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thompson, 7583 Tarlton Road.

The church was decorated with two seven-branch candelabra with white tapers, flanking the altar holding vases of white gladioli and yellow, blue and white daisies. White satin bows with greenery marked the pews.

Mrs. Neil Frazier, organist, presented a half-hour program preceding the wedding.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and mother. For her wedding she selected a formal length gown of white lace. The bodice featured a sheer lace yoke, cameo collar and long sheer lace sleeves. The full skirt was edged with a ruffle at the hemline. The tiered veil was held with a band of daisy and pearl appliques. The bride carried a white Bible topped with a cascade arrangement of blue, white and yellow daisies with purple statice and baby's breath tied with white ribbon forming streamers tied in lovers' knots.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Arthur Timmons, was attired in a navy blue and white chiffon floor length dress with white accessories. Her bouquet was similar to that of the bride.

Mr. Arthur Timmons, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, performed the duties of best man. Usher was Mr. Steve Davis, brother of the bride.

A reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church immediately followed the ceremony. The bride's table, covered with a white cloth was centered with a three tiered wedding cake with white swans between the layers and topped with bride and bridegroom figures. Daisies and greenery surrounded the cake.

Hostesses were Mrs. Milton Davis, Mrs. Steve Davis, Mrs. Gary Stevens and Miss Tina Montgomery.

The new Mrs. Thompson is a graduate of Circleville High School and is employed at Pickaway Auto Parts.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Logan Elm High School, is employed at Eshelman's Mill. The couple now resides at 517 S. Scioto St.

Shower Honors Guild Members

Berger Hospital Guild 52 met at noon Friday at Ted Lewis Park.

Eight members were present for lunch and a baby shower for members, Susan Foley and Cindy Trainer. Cake and punch were served after the gifts were opened.

BARBARA MIRIAM SOUDERS

The engagement of Miss Barbara Miriam Souders and Terry Allen Perry is announced by her mother, Mrs. Roscoe Souders, 360 Brown St. Mr. Perry is the son of Mrs. Charles Barnes, Lancaster, and Mr. Richard Perry, Alexandria, Va.

Miss Souders, also the daughter of the late Mr. Roscoe Souders, is a 1973 graduate of Circleville High School.

Her fiancé, a graduate of Lancaster High School in 1975, is employed by Loroco in Lancaster.

A September 18 wedding is being planned for 6:30 p.m. at First Apostolic Church of Lancaster. The tradition of open church will be observed.

Flower Show Set At Vets Hospital

The annual fall flower show will be held 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Sept. 8 at the recreation hall, building 9, at the Veterans Administration Hospital.

This year's theme will be "America The Beautiful, A tribute To The Bicentennial."

Twenty-three garden clubs from four counties will cooperate to make the show a success. The show is open to the public with no admission charge. Anyone may enter the show but entries will be received only 1-4 p.m. on Sept. 7. Judging will begin at 5 p.m. on that date.

The show is a therapy project for the hospitalized veterans.

The Pickaway Garden Club will hold a workshop on Sept. 7. Members and other volunteers will help the veterans prepare their entries for the show.

46th OFWC Convention At Otterbein College

The 46th annual state Convention of all the garden clubs of the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs has been scheduled for Aug. 10-12, in Cowan Hall, Otterbein College, Westerville, starting with a 6 p.m. o'clock buffet on Tuesday evening.

Part I of "America Grows In Floral Art" will be presented at 7:30 p.m. in Cowan Hall by Robert Shaeffer of Lancaster who is a graduate of the Hixon School of Design in Cleveland and was the recipient of Designer of the Year Awards in Michigan, Virginia, and Washington, D.C.

Also on the stage at the same time will be Mark McCutchan of Evansville, Ind., who attended Michigan State University and majored in Horticulture and Floral Design. He was a special guest designer at the Florist Association Convention at Detroit in 1969 and has received awards in flower shows in Indiana, Michigan, Kentucky and Ohio.

On Wednesday there will be tours, followed by the President's Reception and the annual banquet. Honored guest and speaker will be Dr. Kenneth W. Reisch, Associate Dean, College of Agriculture and Home Economic, Ohio State University, whose topic will be "A Tree For Tomorrow".

40th Anniversary Feted With Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Adams, 230 E. Main St., celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary Sunday at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tatman, Route 2, Kingston. A dinner was served in their honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams are the parents of four daughters and one son: Mrs. Eddie (Linda) Moore, Circleville; Mrs. John (Bonetta) Chaffin, Grove City; Mrs. Joe (Ruth) Callihan, Wellfleet, Neb.; Mrs. Francis (Betty) Floyd, Boalsburg, Pa., and Jack Adams, Hilton, N. Y.

Present for the dinner were the honored guests, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Adams; Mr. and Mrs. John Chaffin, Angela and Michelle; Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Moore and Chastity; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tatman, Delbert, Douglas and Dwayne; Gene Floyd, John Swiple, Jennings Rucker and Larry Callison.

Christian Women Plan Luncheon

Circleville Christian Women's Club will meet for lunch and a program 11:45 a.m. Wednesday at the L-K Restaurant, Route 23 South.

The special feature will be "Fashions By You" style show. Music will be by Laura Dixon and guest speaker is David Sharkley from Dublin.

Free baby sitting is provided and sack lunches are to be brought for each child.

Reservations are to be made with Jane Schneider 474-4839 or Karen Clark 474-5442.

Cookbook recipes usually specify that dried mushrooms be soaked before using. But recently dried mushrooms that do not need soaking have appeared on supermarket shelves. Read the label!

Shower Honors Mrs. Dale Imler

A baby shower honoring Mrs. Dale (Kathi) Imler was held Thursday at Kline Krest Farm, 26900 State Route 104. Hostesses were Sharon Kline, Ginny Arledge and Loche Kline.

An antique bassinet held the gifts beneath a dome umbrella decorated in yellow.

The guests included Barbara Easter, Helen Imler, Sharon Imler, Carol Easter, Ruth Brumfield, Mary Baker, Jane Hedges, Iona Kline, Eula Easter, Eric and Tracy; Tonja, Mitzi and Amber Kline.

Gifts were received from Ollie Easter, Mary Ann Shaw, Mary Greiner, Fay Gallion, Bonnie Schroeder, Belinda Shaw, John Easter, Lola Ertel, Patsy Winner and Arthur Haynes.

A pineapple and lime molded dessert was served with party cookies and lemonade to complete the event.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

If Food Has Smell Be Sure To Tell

DEAR ABBY: A lady wrote to ask what she should do while dining at someone's home if the food doesn't smell right, and I couldn't believe your answer. (You told her not to mention it to the hostess just "disguise" the food on the plate, and pretend to eat it.)

Abby, how could you? Don't you know that if food smells bad (especially fish), it's spoiled and therefore poisonous?

As one who has suffered from seafood poisoning, I implore you to admit that your advice was wrong. Tell people to immediately inform the hostess that the food might be inedible. It would be a kindness to the guests and certainly to the hostess.

If I were a hostess, I'd rather be forewarned than be responsible for poisoning my dinner guests.

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU
DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Back off. You didn't read that answer in MY column. I'd have said, "Tell your hostess at once. Speaking up beats throwing up."

DEAR ABBY: Mike and I have been going steady for nine months, and one thing has bothered me for a long time his cheapness.

Yesterday we went to the beach, and on the way home we stopped for something to eat. Mike said he was broke and asked if I would mind paying for our lunches, so I did.

After lunch we stopped to gas up the car, and when Mike was paying for the gas, I saw two $10 bills and several singles in his wallet.

This isn't the first time this has happened. He has asked me to go to a movie and then asked me to pay for the tickets. He has only him to support, so I can't understand it.

I work hard for my money and Mike knows it. He also works, but he doesn't spend any money on me unless he has to.

I don't want to break up with him

Workers Return At Steubenville

STEUDEVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Striking Steubenville police and firemen obeyed a court order to return to their jobs Wednesday night.

Meanwhile, representatives of the safety forces met with city negotiators and presented a wage proposal which scaled down their increase demand from 20 to 12 per cent. City officials took the proposal under study.

Strikers returned to work in response to a court injunction issued at the city's request after the walkout, which began earlier in the day, left this city of 31,000 with only six persons on duty in the two departments.

Arguments In Reserve Case Slated

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The 8th Circuit Court of Appeals is expected to hear arguments in St. Paul in October on Reserve Mining Company's appeal of a shutdown order issued by U.S. District Judge Edward J. Devitt.

Attorneys in the case have agreed on a schedule for submitting briefs and giving oral arguments. The court is expected to approve the schedule in a formal order.

Under the plan, Reserve will submit its first brief by Aug. 28, the state will reply by Sept. 20, the company will submit a second brief by Oct. 4 and oral arguments will be held the week of Oct. 11.

Devitt issued an order July 7, ordering reserve to close its controversial taconite plant at Silver Bay by midnight July 7, 1977.

The order began a one-year timetable set by the 8th Circuit in March 1975. The Circuit Court had said that if the company and the state could not agree on an on-land dumping site for taconite wastes, the company would be given one year to close.

It is generally believed that Devitt could modify his order and extend the timetable if the two sides can settle on a site soon.

Reserve has offered to begin construction of a land-based disposal system at Milepost 7, near Silver Bay.

The state wants Milepost 20, a site further inland from Lake Superior. The Milepost 20 sites has been recommended by a state hearing examiner, Wayne Olson.

The company now dumps more than 60,000 tons of taconite waste per day into Lake Superior from the Silver Bay plant. The 8th Circuit Court called the dumping a potential health hazard and ordered the company to stop.

Attorneys disagree on when the one-year shutdown period can begin. The company has argued that the state has not taken final action on its Milepost 7 application because the rejection by state agencies is being appealed in state courts.

National Road Important To Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Before the National Road was built in Ohio in the late 1830's there were other long roads in the state, although none had the importance of the National which the government by 1837 had built from Wheeling, W. Va., to just west of Springfield.

There was a stagecoach line between Columbus and Cleveland in 1820, and five years later a weekly mail stage line linked Dayton and Columbus. It took two days to go from Cincinnati to Dayton, a mere jump of a few minutes by airplane in our time.

Long before that, in Ohio history, a pack horse was the simple means of moving a cargo overland, just as a canoe was the chief means in the water. Soon after the French and Indian War ended the France's colony hopes, wagons began to appear in Ohio country, although the roads were nothing but paths cut through the forest. Mud was thick and sticky and horses could not pull large wagons through the bog. Strong oxen were harnessed, and the ox cart arrived. Even the oxen had difficulty, and teams of four or even six were needed.

Finally the Ohio pioneers hit upon the idea of improving the roads by placing logs across the route, side by side. Such "corduroy" roads were better for the oxen, but jolted the passengers constantly.

"Zane's Trace" was built from Wheeling to Maysville in 1797 by Ebenezer Zane. Part of it was to become, nearly a half century later, a portion of the historic National Road.

It is an interesting point in Ohio history that at the very moment Gov. DeWitt Clinton of New York was jabbing a spade into the earth at Licking Summit, near Newark, Ohio on July 4, 1825, to start the work on the Ohio Canal from Portsmouth to Cleveland—a similar ceremony was under way in front of the Belmont County courthouse at St. Clairsville. There work was beginning on the Ohio portion of the National Road, one of the high points from which grew Ohio's extensive highway network today.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Woodgeard (Jane Fetherolf) of Victory Drive, Laurelville, are parents of a son born July 22 in Ross Medical Center, Chillicothe.

A son was born on July 25 to Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Thompson (Judy Flesher) also of Victory Drive, in Ross Medical Center, Chillicothe.

Mrs. Judy Thompson was guest of honor at a baby shower on July 24 when ladies of the Church of God entertained for her in the junior classroom of the church. Guests gave Judy lists of names for babies and each guessed how much the baby would weigh.

Refreshments were served to the honored guest, her mother, Mrs. Flesher; Mrs. Marlene Thompson, her aunt; her sister-in-law, Mrs. Jean Ann Cramblit and daughter Gina.

Others present included Mrs. Marilyn Fry, Mrs. Linda Bell, Mrs.

Shirley Moreno, Mrs. Sharon Lehman, Mrs. Edna Sowers, Mrs. Madelene Claypool, Mrs. Ruth Reid, Mrs. Marjorie Ebert, Mrs. Judy Clifton, Mrs. Jacque Brown, Mrs. Nancy Boyer.

The congregation of the Church of God recently enjoyed an old-fashioned ice cream social at their newly built shelter house. Twelve gallons of homemade ice cream and several cakes were consumed.

In keeping with the bicentennial theme, many of those who attended came dressed in old fashioned clothes, the ladies wearing long dresses, aprons and bonnets, some of the men wore knee britches, some overalls, and Loring Hill came wearing a top hat and frock tailed coat. The Rev. Lynn Summers and Chester Yapple arrived on the mules which were hitched to the open grain wagon in which their families were riding. Driver of the wagon was Jerry Kerns.

After the social every one went into the church for a very impressive bicentennial service. Recently the congregation voted to purchase a new car for the Rev. and Mrs. Summers and their family.

A rummage sale will be held at the Laurel Hills United Methodist Church on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Museum Study Wins Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Interior Committee authorized Wednesday a feasibility study for the creation of a National Afro-American Museum at Wilberforce, Ohio.

Wilberforce, in southwestern Ohio, is the site of the nation's first black university, Wilberforce University, founded in 1857.

The committee action followed a hearing at which testimony was heard from the two sponsors of the measure, Ohio Sens. Robert Taft Jr. and John Glenn, plus Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio; Wilberforce University President Rembert Stokes and Central State University President Lionel Newsome.

of Laurelville brought to a close a weekend revival. The Rev. Ragland was in charge of the services.

The Rev. and Mrs. Robert Hudgins moved this week from Toledo to the parsonage of the Laurel Hills United Methodist Church on South Pike Street.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hinton, daughters Darma and Kim, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Neff and son Jeremy and Mr. and Mrs. Danny DeLong and Brian and Janelle Goodman spent last week at Cumberland Lake.

Mrs. Jeff Hedges (Diana Notestone) and children Jodi and Jamie of Lancaster spent last Tuesday with her aunt, Mrs. Ruth Notestone.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Faring of Tucson, Ariz. were last Friday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Motis Lindsey of near South Bloomingville.

Mrs. Helen Harmon and her daughter Carolyn Hartley attended the 50th wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Merle C. Poling of near Stoutsville on last Sunday. Mrs. Poling is the former Wava Lindsey.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rose were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rose and baby daughter Traci of Xenia.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of Charleston, W. Va., Mr. and Mrs. Philip Frederick and Kathryn Smith of Circleville were Sunday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hartsaugh.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Leffler and children Gena and Bradley of near Logan spent Saturday evening with Mrs. Leffler's mother, Mrs. Helen Harmon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Notestone visited Ruth's aunt, Mrs. Ruth Shoemaker in her new home on Columbus Street in Lancaster last Saturday.

Mrs. Flossie Swackhammer of Somerset spent last Sunday afternoon with her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Edwards.

CIA Drug Experiments Disclosed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA used federal narcotics agents to administer experimental drugs to unwitting informants and criminal suspects in a program aimed at finding chemicals that could alter human behavior, according to newly declassified government documents.

The documents released give previously undisclosed details of a program initially outlined by both the Rockefeller Commission and the Senate intelligence committee.

Both investigations of the CIA program, which began in 1955 and was known as MKULTRA and MKDELTA, suffered from a lack of information because the CIA destroyed most files on the program in 1973.

The new documents were obtained under the Freedom of Information Act by the Center for National Security Studies, a liberal research and lobbying group concerned with foreign policy and national security.

According to the newly released documents, the technical services division of the CIA contracted with officials of what was then known as the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics to have mind-influencing drugs tested on unwitting subjects.

In one document, a CIA inspector general noted that the CIA felt the drugs needed to be tested in "normal life settings."

That would allow a complete study of the drugs' full capabilities "to produce disabling or discrediting effects or to increase the effectiveness of interrogation of hostile subjects."

The inspector general's report said that under the deal with the narcotics bureau, the CIA financed the operation and established "safehouses" where the narcotics agents could dispense the drugs and record reactions by those who took them. No CIA men were present when the drugs were administered, the report said.

Some subjects were "informers or members of suspect criminal elements from whom the (narcotics) bureau has obtained results of operational value through the tests," according to the report by the inspector general, an internal agency watchdog.

The CIA was troubled by a problem in gathering results because after narcotics agents dispensed the drugs, there was no guarantee that an agent would get a first-hand look at the subject under the influence, the report said. But, it said, the tests did give the agency valuable experience in perfecting techniques for covertly delivering drugs and in identifying effects of different drugs.

Another problem was the effect the experimental drugs sometimes had on those who received them.

"In a number of instances ... the test subject has become ill for hours or days, including hospitalization in at least one case," the report said. It said the agent involved in that case had trouble finding out the effects of the drug and had to make "guarded inquiry after the test subject's return to normal life."

Although working records of the program have been destroyed, the CIA has said the drug research program was completely phased out by 1967.

The 1963 inspector general's report said some researchers felt the work to be "professionally unethical" and that some parts of the MKULTRA testing "places the rights and interests of U.S. citizens in jeopardy."

Coliseum Officials Face Charges

CINCINNATI (AP) — Charges of failure to comply with a lawful order of the Cincinnati fire chief have been filed against three top officials of Riverfront Coliseum in the wake of Tuesday night's Elton John concert.

Ordered to appear in Hamilton County Criminal Court August 16 on one count each are: Brian Heekin, president of the coliseum; Richard Morgan, director of operations; and James Madgett, director of security.

Police made 10 arrests before the sold-out concert when about 2,000 persons without tickets gathered near the entrances to the arena. A 45-minute disturbance ensued before police cleared the area.

The trio are charged with failing to comply with 10 orders issued by the fire chief. Those orders covered such alleged violations as locking exit doors during the performance, permitting overcrowded conditions, blocking aisles and use of fireworks by spectators.

"We have talked to coliseum officials for some time and tried to work with them to alleviate this problem but have gotten no results," said Fire Chief Bert Lugannani.

"We are not against shows, out-of-town visitors and people making a profit," the chief added, "but we are more interested in public safety."

Heekin said the coliseum took the same security precautions for the Elton John concert as any other event.

The misdemeanor charges carry penalties of a $5 to $500 fine, imprisonment of not more than six months, or both.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Want to do something different with your last few weeks of summer vacation? Why not have some fun in the kitchen? The Children's Room has a whole shelf of cookbooks — some of which are presented in such a manner that you can enjoy reading them even if you don't plan to cook!

A good one to start with is "Raggedy Ann and Andy's Cook Book". Here you'll find lots of pictures of the famous rag dolls and their friends as the pair tells you how to make their very favorite things — delicious food!

If you are acquainted with Winnie the Pooh and Christopher Robin, you certainly won't want to miss "The Pooh Cook Book". Honey is an important ingredient in this text, and each recipe has a quotation from "Winnie-the-Pooh" or "The House at Pooh Corner". Among the intriguing recipes are instructions for concocting "A Very Nearly Tea" and "Hippy Pappy Bthuthdth Thuthda Bthuthdy Cake".

Another book about food and storybook characters is "The Storybook Cookbook". Recipes here will teach you how to make Pinocchio's poached egg, Hans Brinker's waffles, the Queen of Hearts' strawberry tarts, and Robinson Crusoe's homemade bread, to mention only a few. Along with the recipes you will find brief descriptions and illustrations of all the stories, as well as quotes from the books about the foods.

If "Phantom Eggs", "Old Stagecoach Sausage Loaf", "Detective Burgers", or "Sleuth Soup" sound interesting to you, you'll want to investigate the "Nancy Drew Cookbook". The above recipes are just a sample of the many dishes the famous young detective shares with her readers. And most recipes come complete with a special "clue" for adding variety!

Primary school age children with a yen to fix it themselves shouldn't have trouble making the snacks described in "How to Make Elephant Bread". The fun easy-to-read text covers "Elephant Bread" (peanut-butter sandwiches), "Chocolate Cat" (you-know-what-kind-of-milk), and other treats with a twist.

In addition to the above and other "special" cookbooks, the Children's Room has plenty of books of basic beginner's cookery. "My Learn to Cook Book", "Cook-In", and our newest, "Betty Crocker's Cookbook for Boys and Girls", are only a few. Come see them all for yourself and then surprise your family and friends with something delicious!

Derby News

Those who helped to make this year's Derby Vacation Bible School a success are Sandy Spradlin, Inez Peterson who were in charge of the kindergarten class; first and second grades — Ruth Gillam, Marci Jo Durlinger, Linda Steele, and Lisa Mayer; third and fourth grades — Jacqui Rice and Marsha Spradlin; coordinator, Linda Weimer; music, Sally Graham; refreshments, Betty Caudill and Carolyn Onewehr; other helpers included Pat Jeffries, Frieda McPherson, and everyone who sent cookies.

The Derby Homecoming was a big success as usual and a lot of Derby residents, IOOF Lodge and Men's Club members gave of their time and effort to make it so. Also, the Good Lord blessed us with ideal weather except for a little rain, just to remind us He is still the Boss.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Coleman and family dropped in on the Archie Sweets Saturday after attending the Derby Homecoming.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gillespie and son Kenneth visited with the Joseph Clem family of Columbus the past week.

Vacation Bible School will be held Aug. 9-13 at the Southwest Community Church of the Nazarene. Young Adults Retreat will be Aug. 13-15.

Stoutsville To Seek Levy Renewal

Stoutsville Village Council adopted the resolution to put the renewal of the 2 mill levy on the November ballot at the regular monthly meeting presided over by Mayor E. A. Thiel.

The council also accepted the resignation of Bill Sark as street commissioner and a replacement will be named in the near future. Charles Harrison reported on his findings concerning the replacement of the present police cruiser. The mayor stated that several traffic offenders had been arrested.

Clerk Mary E. Meyer read a letter from the Penn Central Railroad stating that they have not abandoned the tracks through the village as stated in a previous letter. Marshall Bill Sark was authorized to purchase necessary supplies to update his department. Current bills were approved for payment. Next council meeting will be September 7.

Railroad Crowning Ohio Achievement

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The crowning achievement of Ohio's transportation system on land, without question, was the railroad which followed the highways, the canals and the steamboat to move the state's people and products more rapidly, and more efficiently.

Historians mark that the Fourth of July has been the notable date in the history of Ohio transportation. It was on Independence Day in 1825 that Ohio's canals and her section of the National Road began. But far away in Maryland, July 4, 1828, there was a ceremony involving a third means of travel, rivaling the canals.

Charles Carroll of Carrollton, then the only living signer of the Declaration of Independence, laid the cornerstone of the office of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The people who had invested their money in canal bonds did not awaken until a few years later to the fact a deadly enemy was approaching, for the rail system was creeping across the mountains. The railroads then began to appear inside Ohio.

A Toledo doctor, in 1832, planned the first such railroad line in Ohio, the pioneer rail company west of the Alleghenies. It was called the Erie and Kalamazoo, but it ran only as far as Adrian, Mich. The legislature of Michigan granted the charter on the ground it was "a mere fanciful object" and could do no harm. The company was formed in 1835, and the next year the road was opened with horses instead of locomotives.

The first railroad wholly inside the state was the Mad River and Lake Erie from Dayton to Sandusky. The charter was granted in 1832, and the Sandusky-Bellevue section, 16 miles, was opened seven years later. The entire line, from the lake to Dayton, was in operation by 1844. Four years later there was a railroad across the state, the Little Miami, from Cincinnati to Springfield, connected with the Mad River and Lake Erie. Columbus welcomed its first train in 1850.

Denim Clothing Boom Aids Cotton Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The boom in denim-clothing sales has been given major credit for pulling U.S. cotton farming out of a slump, but the cotton farmer still gets only 6½ cents out of each dollar that consumers spend on jeans.

That's the calculation of the Agriculture Department's Commodity Economics Division, which by way of comparison reports that farmers last year got 64 cents of the beef dollar and 19 cents of the bread dollar.

Thieves End Vacation Hope

CINCINNATI (AP) — Thieves who made off with $820 and a television set here Tuesday night took something else worth a lot more: a disabled couple's dream of a first-and-last Florida vacation.

"I've always wanted to see Florida," said Mrs. Betty Wendling, who is scheduled to undergo a serious operation in two weeks. "And since my chances were so slim, my husband said, why not take the money and go now?"

Mrs. Wendling, who is confined to a wheelchair most of the time, is having surgery to repair a hip joint. But doctors recently discovered she has bone cancer in one leg.

Her husband, John Wendling, was injured in his job at a sheet metal factory in 1972 and is a paraplegic. They hid the money in their house instead of depositing it in a bank because their checks had just arrived and they planned to leave for Florida Thursday morning.

Instead, they must wait for a $102 voucher from the Hamilton County Welfare Department to pay their rent, which was due Aug. 1.

Mrs. Wendling and two of her seven children discovered the theft when they returned from a movie. Five older children live away from home. One of them has epilepsy and is in an institution.

dollar, 42 cents, goes to the retailer and the wholesaler, reports Edward H. Glade Jr. of the USDA agency.

The least amount goes to the cotton ginner, who gets less than a penny, and the marketing firms, which get just over a penny for moving the cotton from the production area to the mill.

Glade said about 20 per cent of cotton for clothing goes into blue jeans. From the farmers' point of view, that was 613,400 bales in 1974, the last year for which firm figures are available.

That represented a 35 per cent jump since 1970 and didn't count the fiber for denim book covers, jackets, dresses, handbags, saddlebags, cover-alls and other denim products.

An additional 30 cents goes to the manufacturers for styling, cutting, sewing and the label. Twenty cents goes to the textile mills for spinning the farmer's raw cotton into yarn after ginning, for dyeing the yarn and for weaving it into rolls of denim for the manufacturer.

Others in Glade's division pointed out that fashion trends, are only one factor in the fortunes of the fiber farmer. Price competition from still-cheaper man-made fibers has more impact, they said, since cotton can now claim only about 30 per cent of the market. Economic recession last year deepened the slump throughout the textile business that began two years ago.

In response to the fashion swings, a 50 per cent jump in spring cotton prices and higher government production-loan rates, cotton farmers planted 1.5 million acres more this year than last.

Local Women Attend OU Conference

Sharon N. Downard, of Columbus, Nancy Shollenberger, 131 Dunmore Road, and Tom and Edith Downing, 163 W. Mound, participated in a conference on the United States Constitution which was presented by Ohio University with support from the Ohio Program in the Humanities July 19-23 at the Athens campus.

The five-day conference was designed to be a bicentennial inquiry into the ideological background of the U.S. Constitution and the influence these humanistic roots have had on the American character.

A highlight of the week was a performance by noted actor, James Earl Jones, who read selections derived from works read or discussed as topics during the conference.

Keynote speaker for the conference was scholar and essayist George Anastaplo, who spoke on "Founding and Refounding: Two Centuries of Experience."

The conference, under the direction of Dr. Edward Quattrochi, associate professor of English at Ohio University, was the fourth annual humanities conference presented by the University. It was sponsored by the English Department in cooperation with the Office of Workshops, Conferences and Institutes.

Organic Farming Would Cut Output

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pure organic farming throughout American agriculture would cut production of hard-red winter wheat by 50 per cent, corn by a third to one-half and citrus almost entirely, Agriculture Department officials say.

Organic farming, the practice of using natural predators and fertilizers instead of chemicals, "is not economical for large parts of the country," the officials said.

The assessment came recently in written responses by Assistant Secretary Robert W. Long to questions from the House Science and Technology Committee and in materials prepared by economic analyst Earle E. Gavett for the Farm Index magazine.

Top USDA policymakers like Secretary Earl L. Butz and economics director Don Paarlberg routinely speak of an agricultural future of large, highly mechanized farms employing the latest technology—and that means largely inorganic farming. Butz often scoffs at the organic farmers and their concern about those chemicals.

Long and Gavett said research by the USDA and landgrant universities "indicates that the feasibility of pure organic farming...depends on the kind of farm in question, the crops produced and the type of soil."

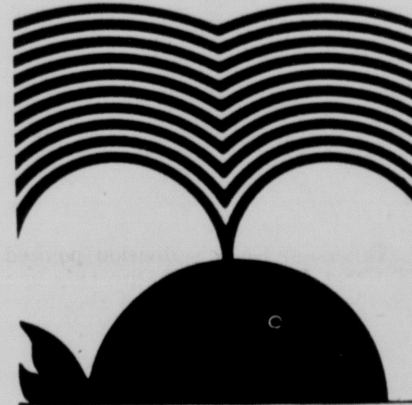

Their report did not mention the apparent popularity and success of organic farming in the backyard vegetable garden, but did address major money crops.

Studies in the Great Plains "found that without the application of nitrogen fertilizer, our production of hard-red wheat could drop by as much as 50 per cent. U.S. farm exports would suffer, not to mention the diets of millions of people in less-developed nations that depend on our wheat," Long and Gavett.

Rotating a wheat crop with legumes that fix nitrogen in the soil would exhaust the soil moisture in the Great Plains where there is sparse rainfall, they said.

Ken Anderson Still Forgotten Quarterback

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Football fans who focus on the careers of star quarterbacks like Fran Tarkenton, Joe Namath and Terry Bradshaw might be hard-pressed to name the top passer in football for the last two years.

His name is Ken Anderson and his stellar achievements may be among the best-kept secrets in the football world. But it's no secret to his teammates.

"With the career he has already had," noted center Bob Johnson, "a lot of quarterbacks would've been household words by now."

The Augustana College graduate passed for 3,169 yards in 1975, completing 60.5 per cent of his passes, to lead the National Football League for the second straight year. Last January, he finally was named to the Pro Bowl for the first time in a five-year career.

Johnson thinks the national press might take more notice of Anderson if the Bengals advance farther in the league playoffs.

"I think we have to win more big games than we have," he said. "We play two Monday night games this year—that'll help. Because Kenny certainly deserves all the credit he can get."

Bob Trumpy doesn't think Anderson is looking for all the credit he can get. "It's just not in his nature to have a

"I'm the one' type of attitude. He went to a small school and has taken his success very well. He could've really gone on an ego trip, but he didn't."

"He's really down to earth," Trumpy added. "In fact, too much. Right or wrong, we've begun to encourage him to raise a little hell. If someone does something wrong, like if they get through, tell somebody. Be a field general."

But, the veteran receiver added, "He just isn't a pushy person."

"That's not Kenny's personality," agreed Chip Myers. "He leads by example. All he has to do is continue to perform great and when he says something, be sincere. We don't need a cheerleader."

Myers said one reason Anderson doesn't receive more publicity is "the nature and size of the town we have in Cincinnati. You don't have to be a great player to get national press. It's playing in cities like New York, Chicago and Los Angeles where you receive national acclaim."

"You can't blame Cincinnati," countered Trumpy. "I think he's content with just the people who know football recognizing he's good. His teammates know he's the best, everybody in football knows he's the best."

"Maybe there's not that much to tell about Kenny," Trumpy mused, "and I think he wants it that way."

Reds Drop 4-1 Game To 'Count'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds tried everything including flattery against San Francisco's John "The Count" Montefusco. "Are you going to take that hit?" the Giants' pitcher yelled at Johnny Bench after the Reds' slugging catcher singled in the second inning Wednesday on a grounder that stopped 20 feet from home plate.

"I told him I'd take anything I could get against 'The Count,'" Bench said after Montefusco notched a 4-1 victory over the Reds, who hoped to take an eight-game winning streak into their important series in Los Angeles opening tonight.

Gary Matthews belted a two-run homer off Gary Nolan, 10-6, in the first inning and doubled in the eighth, coming home on Darrel Evans' single. Randy Moffitt pitched the ninth to save the victory for Montefusco, 11-9, who threw 136 pitches and admitted, "That's a lot."

"But I should have shut them out," added the talkative righthander who enjoys facing the world champs, win or lose. "I honestly think I can win 20 games this year. I only need nine more, and if I can beat these guys, there's no reason why I can't beat anyone else."

Montefusco was at his best in three key faceoffs with George Foster, the National League's RBL leader. He struck out the ex-Giant three times with runners on base.

"The Count was great against George. It wasn't anything George did wrong," said Pete Rose. "That strikeout in the first inning was the big one, with runners on second and third."

Foster said, "He gave me my pitch, the fastball, a couple of times and I didn't hit it. I sure couldn't hit his pitch, the breaking stuff, so the result was three strikeouts and a lot of guys left on base."

Although the Giants ended a four-game losing streak, at least one player, shortstop Chris Speier, went away unhappy as the team headed for a game in Atlanta tonight.

Manager Bill Rigney has asked him to try his hand at second base, a position he's never played, after Johnnie LeMaster, called up from the minors Wednesday, joins the team in Atlanta and takes over at shortstop.

"I'm not ready to go along with it, at least not right now," said Speier, who has been with the Giants longer than any other current player and twice made the All-Star team as a shortstop.

"LeMaster's defensive game is as good as any shortstop's in the game today," said Rigney. "This just might make us a little better team."

And the Giants, in last place 22½ games behind the Reds, have a long way to go.

Jenkins, Bosox Stop Tigers, 4-1

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Ferguson Jenkins doesn't win 20 games every year anymore. But every other year will suit him just fine.

"It's possible to win 20," said Jenkins after he pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 4-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers Wednesday night. "I've got maybe 14 starts left, and I'm hoping anyhow."

Jenkins scattered seven hits in raising his record to 11-8, including victories in his last six decisions. He was backed by home runs from Fred Lynn and Cecil Cooper.

The 32-year-old right-hander used to be a charter member of the 20 victories club. But twice in the last three years Jenkins failed to meet the eligibility requirements.

Each time Jenkins doesn't win 20 games he seems to get traded. So it didn't look like his stay in Boston was going to be a long one when he was logging a 1-5 record on May 11 and a 5-8 mark on June 25.

But he hasn't lost since.

"I'm just trying to be consistent, throwing hard and keeping it around the plate," Jenkins said. "I've been in the groove the last few ballgames. I think it's because of our four-man rotation."

I'm getting runs to work with. I have to take the bitter with the sweet. I just hope the bitter was at the beginning of the season."

Elsewhere in the American League, the Oakland A's blanked the Chicago White Sox 5-0; the Kansas City Royals beat the Minnesota Twins 4-2; the Cleveland Indians stopped the Baltimore Orioles 3-0; the California Angels outscored the Texas Rangers 9-6, and the Milwaukee Brewers beat the New York Yankees 4-3, then lost the second game of their doubleheader, 7-2.

Brewers 4-2, Yankees 3-7
Catfish Hunter is another lodge brother in the 20-victories club, but he is in jeopardy of losing his membership key.

"I'm not happy at all with the way I've been pitching," said Hunter, a 20-game winner the past five years, whose record now is 12-11. "It's always just one inning that seems to hurt me."

The problem inning against the Brewers was the third and the problem batter was Sixto Lezcano, who smacked a two-run homer. Bill Travers, 13-8, tossed a five-hitter.

The Yankees bounced back in the second game, profiting from Chris Chambliss' two-run homer and two-run single.

Circleville Sets Athletic Physical Exams

Circleville High School Athletic Director Larry Cook announced that all junior and senior high school girl and boy athletes who are planning in participating in any sports program must have a physical examination from their family doctor before they will be eligible to compete in sports programs.

This is an Ohio High School Athletic Association rule.

No free physical examinations will be given this year as has been done in the past. Students for whom this physical presents a financial hardship are encouraged to contact Larry Cook at the high school, 474-7731.

5 Inductions Set In Grid Hall Of Fame

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Five former Ohio high school football coaches will be inducted into the Ohio High School All-Stars Hall of Fame during ceremonies Thursday at the Ohio Union.

The ceremonies precede the 31st annual Hall of Fame football classic between north and south teams, scheduled Friday night.

Those to be inducted include:

—Henry K. "Heinie" Schroth, who coached for 30 years in Ohio high schools, including Hebron Lakewood, Dayton Stivers, Jackson, Crooksville, Gallipolis, Bellville, Cardington, Highland, Marysville and Carlisle.

—Junie Ferral, a former Canton McKinley and Ohio State footballer who started coaching in 1933 and is now athletic director at Barborton.

—Abe Bryan, former Miami of Ohio footballer and head coach at Steubenville for the last 25 years.

—Edwin "Bud" Busher, whose coaching career spanned 40 years in Northern Ohio, including Minerva, Mt. Union and Lisbon. He was voted coach of the year in Columbiana County five times. Busher now is retired and serves as a probation officer in Columbiana County.

—Joseph A. Rich, present athletic director at Mineral Ridge High School. He coached football at Bergholz, McConnellsville, Warren St. Mary, Lordstown, Mercer County and Mineral Ridge.

Translation Needed For Baseball Contract

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — For Taiwan baseball players, Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium is a lot farther than just across the ocean—about six years farther.

The Cincinnati Reds last year signed two Taiwanese prospects, but the club has learned the players have at least six years of educational and military obligations facing them before they can honor the contracts.

Undaunted, the Reds signed another Taiwan player recently. When they got the contract, it was entirely in Chinese.

To figure out the name of the player, who was signed by a scout in Taiwan, a team official took the contract to the University of Cincinnati for transla-

Braves Edge Jones, Padres, 1-0

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

San Diego ace Randy Jones, in pursuit of a 30-victory season, has been packing them in everywhere he goes. But Atlanta is not everywhere.

Only 2,715 paying fans turned up at Atlanta Stadium Wednesday to watch the winningest pitcher in the majors go after victory No. 19. And they saw him get loss No. 6 instead.

Dick Ruthven outdueled the Padres' ace 1-0 with a slick eight-hit, 10-strikeout performance.

"I wasn't worried about pitching against Jones," said Ruthven, 12-9. "The only time I worried about him was when he came to bat. I just wanted to keep them from scoring."

Elsewhere in the National League, Houston edged Los Angeles 1-0, San Francisco downed Cincinnati 4-1, Philadelphia beat Chicago 7-5, New York blanked Montreal 4-0 and Pittsburgh got by St. Louis 2-1 in 12 innings.

The Braves waited until the ninth inning before making Jones a loser. Rod Gilbreath led off with a single, his third hit of the game, and Jim Wynn followed with a booming double to left center for the game's only run.

"It's about time," said Wynn, who hasn't had much to shout about this season. "I think I'll go out and celebrate."

Astros 1, Dodgers 0

James Rodney Richard bested Doug Rau with a six-hitter. Greg Gross tripled in the sixth and scored on Enos Cabell's bloop single for the game's only run. It was the first time Houston had beaten Los Angeles in their last nine meetings.

Giants 4, Reds 1

Gary Matthews belted a two-run homer and scored another run on Darrell Evans' single as San Francisco ended Cincinnati's winning streak at seven games. John Montefusco picked up his 11th victory with relief help from Randy Moffitt. Gary Nolan, 10-6, was the loser.

Phils 7, Cubs 5

Mike Schmidt belted two home runs — Nos. 28 and 29 — and Tim McCarver hit his first of the season as Philadelphia overcame a 4-0 deficit. Seven of Schmidt's homers have come at Wrigley Field. Gene Garber, 7-2, won it with four innings of scoreless relief, and Joe Coleman, 0-5, was the loser.

Mets 4, Expos 0

Jerry Koosman raised his record to 13-7 with a four-hitter and Jerry Grote knocked in two runs with a triple for New York. Koosman, second only to Randy Jones in National League victories, won for the seventh time in his last eight decisions. Don Carriethers, 5-7, was the loser.

Pirates 2, Cardinals 1

Rennie Stennett scored on an infield grounder to give Pittsburgh its 12th-inning triumph. Stennett reached base on a fielder's choice, stole second, took third on Tommy Helms' single and scored on an infield grounder by Dave Parker. Pitcher Bob Forsch homered for the Cards.

The Allwood Stable's Savoir was voted the 1975 harness horse of the year.

Keeping Bait Alive Challenging

By JIM DAUBEL

For The Associated Press

Keeping minnows, worms and other natural bait alive in summer heat is a challenge that can pay off handsomely in more fishing success.

Little is required in the way of specialized gear, although advance planning and extra care are needed to keep your bait frisky.

Minnows are especially sensitive to heat and rapid changes in water temperatures. Without a reasonably controlled aquatic environment they won't last long when outside readings are in the 80s and 90s.

Water loses oxygen as it warms. To slow warming, either insulate the water or use larger quantities. I have had excellent results by transporting minnows during long auto trips in a 10-gallon milk can. On reaching my destination, minnows and some of the same water are transferred to an insulated foam plastic bucket.

The bucket goes in the boat and does a much better job of keeping minnows lively than does the metal type, even those with liners that are floated alongside the boat in warm surface waters.

The secret with a foam bucket is to replace some of the water frequently with like amounts of the water in which you are fishing. In so doing you keep the bucket water cool, avoid sharp temperature changes likely with a complete change of water, and you accustom the bait to temperatures it will be in when you actually bait your line. Coolness also counts with other baits such as nightcrawlers and crayfish, although there are limits. I once stored several dozen softshell crayfish in lightly iced water and slowed their metabolism down so much that they appeared dead when I went to use them. Most eventually revived but not till long after I needed them.

You'll have much better luck with nightcrawlers if they're handled properly from the moment you capture or buy them.

Worms packed by dealers in plastic containers should be transferred to insulated boxes with covers to shield the contents from the sun. If you catch your own crawlers, store them in a dark place at temperatures between 45 and 55 degrees.

Styrofoam boxes sold for carrying cold drink six packs are ideal worm containers as are the pressed paper boxes sold for worms. Both are well insulated and "breathe" to provide ventilation.

For periods of up to several days, worms keep well in shredded newsprint, moss or leaves, all of which should be dampened with unchlorinated water so the "bedding" is moist but not wet enough to drip when squeezed. Special bedding material is good for keeping nightcrawlers for longer periods.

Keep worms boxes in a shady, ventilated place. Add a few ice cubes periodically to cool their environment or keep the container in an ice chest if possible.

Most bait can be kept indefinitely with proper handling under constant, cool temperatures and occasional changes of water or bedding.

Sam McIlvaine Is Speaker At Circleville Kiwanis Club

FAMILY REUNION DAY — Ray Cundiff (left), president of Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday, announced the club has joined with other Kiwanis Clubs the world over in proclaiming Family Reunion Day Sunday. In observance, as a Kiwanis family, the Circleville Club will hold a steak and hamburger picnic Monday at Ted Lewis Park. Bertus Bennett (right) is chairman of the event.

Sam McIlvaine was the speaker at Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday. Affiliated with Reynolds Aluminum, Ashville, McIlvaine showed a film, "Aluminum on the March." Guests included Frank Hudson of Ashville Kiwanis Club and Ed Bolen of Reynolds Aluminum. Ray Cundiff, president, read a letter from the Pickaway Senior Citizens thanking Kiwanis in general and Charles Curlett and Art Goodwin in particular for the recent donations of an adding machine. President Cundiff reminded members that Monday is the annual family cookout. He reminded Kiwanians and their families to bring their own table service. Cundiff announced the last 105 Division Council meeting of the current year will be held Aug. 11 at Valley View Golf Course in Lancaster. There will be golfing during the day and dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Atom Plant Material Could Make Bombs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Countries being supplied with U.S. uranium now possess enough raw nuclear material to make about 1,000 atomic bombs, according to American and foreign experts. And these experts said Monday that even if those countries wanted to return the nuclear material to U.S. control, the United States has neither the facilities nor the space to reprocess or store it.

A senior U.S. authority familiar with the situation came up with this explanation: "If all this spent nuclear fuel is permitted to lie around indefinitely there is an obvious danger that some of it might be diverted for military purposes, despite international checks and treaties," he said. "If, on the other hand, the United States were to exercise its option to buy back the spent fuel, then this country would in time become a dumping ground for highly hazardous material."

Spent nuclear fuel after reprocessing yields plutonium — an ingredient of atomic bombs. Sources, including diplomats and scientists, estimated that more than 4,000 metric tons of spent fuel has piled up since about 1971 in Latin American, European and Asian lands, which buy low-enriched uranium from the United States. This material would be enough to construct about 1,000 atomic bombs, the sources say. Such weapons presumably would be crude devices with the explosive capacity of the bombs that destroyed Hiroshima and Nagasaki at the end of World War II. The two bombs dropped on Japan in 1945 each had an explosive force of about 20,000 tons of TNT.

Indian experts said their country has a stockpile of about 200 metric tons. And despite frequent requests, the Indians said, Washington has avoided repurchasing it.

U.S. agreements of 1963 and 1966 with India included provisions that figure in most nuclear cooperation accords Washington has negotiated with friendly powers.

Under these agreements, the United States ships low-enriched uranium (meaning nonweapons grade) for use in nuclear power stations, then has first option to buy back spent fuel India doesn't need.

COMPLIMENTS WINNER — Suella Erwin, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Erwin, Route 2, was the winner of Clothing Compliments.

McKay Joins Kinetics

Frank D. McKay, Route 5, has been appointed Corporate Controller for the Consolidated Kinetics Corporation. This announcement was made by Laurence L. Eberhart, President and Chairman.

McKay will be responsible for the general accounting of the corporation, the management information system including cost accounting, and the automatic data processing department.

Prior to joining Kinetics, McKay served as corporate controller for the G. W. VanCamp Company, Circleville and as administrative assistant to the director of Scotts Lawn Care Service Division, O.M. Scott and Sons Company, Marysville.

McKay attended Northwestern University and the University of Cincinnati where he obtained his B.S. degree in commerce.

Consolidated Kinetics, a subsidiary of Peabody Galian Corporation, manufactures noise and vibration control products and systems for industrial plant applications, the heating, ventilating, and air conditioning market, the architectural market involving multi-story buildings, and for subway systems such as the new subway in Washington, D.C. Kinetics products and systems are marketed throughout the United States and Canada as well as Europe, Scandinavia, the Middle East, and Australia.

Ban On Trapping Comes Under Fire

For The Associated Press
A proposed ban on trapping would harm, not help, wild and domestic animal populations in Ohio, the chief veterinarian with the state health department says. Dr. Jack H. Russell warned that reducing controls over certain wildlife populations could lead to an increase in diseases among animals in the wild, household pets and, in extreme cases, could endanger humans as well. Dr. Russell is chief public health veterinarian with the Ohio Health Department's Division of Communicable Diseases. His observations came during an interview on the likely impact of a constitutional ban on use of the leg-hold trap in Ohio. Petitions are being circulated by antitrapping groups to submit a proposed constitutional amendment to voters in the November general assembly.

Without trapping, it is "reasonable and logical to assume that wild animal populations will increase," Dr. Russell said. "When that happens, disease will limit animal populations if man does not."

He itemized rabies, canine distemper, canine hepatitis, feline panleucopenia and canine herpes virus as threats to wild and domestic animals. All affect the central nervous system, although only rabies is transmitted to man, usually by animal bites, he said.

Infected animals ordinarily die lingering deaths, sometimes over a week or two, during which the animal may become aggressive, depressed, listless or partially paralyzed before lapsing into a coma and dying, according to Dr. Russell.

"It certainly is not a pleasant experience for the animal. It is a long, drawn out process that is very painful for the animal," he explained.

As animal populations grow, the mathematical chance of disease increases as does the likelihood of spreading infections, he said.

Compounding the problem, Dr. Russell added, is the growth of human and domestic pet populations, particularly the trend toward concentrated living in suburban settings near rural areas where contact with wild animals is not uncommon.

Dr. Russell is not taking a position on the proposed amendment, he said, although he "can see no benefit" in banning the leg-hold trap.

Sponsors of the proposed change say the trap is "inhumane" because it allegedly causes animals that are caught to suffer.

Dr. Russell acknowledged that death by disease or starvation in the wild is not a pleasant alternative but said "I can't argue the humane aspect, although there are better ways to address that problem. Perhaps better regulation of trapping is necessary or stronger enforcement of the laws. But a constitutional amendment is too inflexible and may end up doing more harm than good."

COMPLIMENT SECOND — Shirley Fields, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fields, Route 3, Orient, took second place in Clothing Compliments with this pinafore.

By The Associated Press
Scattered showers and thundershowers were scattered over much of the central United States today, extending as far west as eastern Washington.

The storms affected northern lower Michigan, much of Wisconsin, Minnesota and the Dakotas, southern Nebraska and the high plains of Wyoming and northeast Colorado. Some isolated thundershowers extended over the north and central Rockies into eastern Washington.

Severe thunderstorms developed over Morgan and Weld counties in northeast Colorado.

Meanwhile, another area affected by thunderstorms and showers reached from southern Louisiana along the Gulf Coast into north and south Florida.

Skies were clear over California, the southern intermountain region and in the South and central Plains.
Cloudy skies were dominant through the Gulf Coast.

In the Northeast, most temperatures were in the 60s just after midnight compared to many readings in the 50s and some 40s twenty-four hours earlier. Phillipsburg, Pa. registered 48, however, and a cold front pushing into northern sections of North Dakota and Minnesota lowered temperatures there into the 50s.

One tornado was sighted
Tuesday night 40 miles north of Cheyenne, Wyo.

The forecast for today called for thundershowers scattered over Florida with showers and occasional thundershowers along the Gulf of Mexico coast and the south Atlantic coast. Scattered showers and thunderstorms were expected over the Ohio Valley through the western two-thirds of the Great Lakes and the upper Mississippi Valley. Scattered showers and thundershowers were also expected over the Northwest from the upper Missouri Valley across the northern intermountains through southern Washington.

Temperatures were expected to be mild from the upper Great Lakes through the north half of the Rockies and the Pacific Northwest coast. Elsewhere, seasonably warm temperatures were forecast.

Utility Reform Nears Ohio Ballot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A utility reform group has cleared the first hurdle in an effort to place four issues on the Nov. 2 ballot, including a nuclear safety proposition.

Ohioans for Utility Reform (OUR) delivered petitions in cardboard boxes
Tuesday to Secretary of State Ted W.
Brown. Spokesmen for the group said they had 378,000 signatures, exceeding the minimum 307,201 required by law.

No other petitioners appeared, but they have a last chance today to meet the technical deadline. Brown advised petition committees to come a day early because of ambiguity in the filing law.

Meanwhile, a utility-backed group,
Citizens for Safe Lower Cost Electricity, called a news conference today to announce plans for a campaign against the amendments proposed by OUR.

"Our initiative drive proves that citizens can work together and make themselves heard," said OUR Chairman Robert Loitz, an Akron businessman. "OUR has built a truly grass roots organization by giving citizens an opportunity to turn their anger over rising utility rates to constructive action."

Loitz promised a "people to people campaign," but conceded OUR at present did not have money to offset the expected media campaign by pro-utility opposition.

The proposed constitutional amendment on nuclear safety would require legislative approval of safety systems before building begins on nuclear power plants. It would not apply to plants already under construction, but to any facility that "does not have all final state approval and a final valid construction license from the federal government" as of last
Jan. 1.

The amendment would force utilities to have enough liability insurance to "fully compensate" victims of any damage caused by a nuclear plant.

The OUR ballot package would also provide:

A "lifeline" utility rate for service to guarantee residential consumers minimum amounts of gas and electricity at nominal monthly costs.

—A Residential Utility Consumers Action Group (RUCAG) to speak for consumers in rate cases before the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

—A simplification of procedures and easing of requirements for placing initiative petitions on the ballot, without legislative approval.

"History is being made in the state today," Loitz told newsmen at a meeting in front of the State Office Tower. "OUR signature total reflects clearly the citizens demand that we have a vote on utility and initiative reform."

The petitions must still face scrutiny by election officials to determine if all of the signatures are valid. Ballot committees usually aim for at least 400,000 names to build a cushion against invalidations.

If the signatures fall below the required level during the check, Brown will notify OUR that it has 10 additional days to gather more petitions.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Talk controversial issues over in a businesslike, objective fashion, not permitting personalities to enter the fray. Pay no attention to those who dissent "on general principle."

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): You may be up against some unusual competition in your field, so keep your eye on the ball. With your fine intelligence, you should find ways to outrun the best.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Workaday routine may seem more tedious than usual, but evening activities will more than make up for it. Look for exceptionally stimulating activities then.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Some misleading influences. Take all "inside information" and "sure tips" with the proverbial grain of salt.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): As with Cancer, you, too, must be alert to deceptive influences now. Even your closest friends may be telling only half the story. Here's where your innate perceptiveness and intuition can be of great help.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A day calling for your best judgment. You could cause unnecessary misunderstandings by involving yourself in the affairs of others. Don't underestimate the competition either.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Curb emotions and do not let sympathy for one cause blind you to the attributes of another. Take care of undertakings in order, but without anxiety.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Mixed influences. Your efforts may not show immediate returns. They will, however, strengthen your current status. Stress accuracy, precision.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): There may be more than one way to achieve your goal, so keep eyes and ears open. Generally speaking, the strong and decisive try will pay off.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): As the week draws to a close, prepare to revive depleted energies, dwindling resources. Rekindle and optimistic outlook toward the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You usually like to solve your own problems, but don't arbitrarily reject another's idea. It may be more practical than your own.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Mixed influences. Be prompt to reject unethical, or even slightly questionable schemes. Too much is at stake; too much can get out of hand.

YOU BORN TODAY are a highly gifted individual; magnetic of personality and imbued with a love of beauty and the dramatic. If you do not take up the theater, writing or music as a career - all of which are the best outlets for your talents - you will, nevertheless, inject something of beauty and drama into whatever you do. You may teach or preach, buy or sell, design or illustrate - but always with flair. The Leoite usually advances on his own momentum because he is unusually ambitious and constantly finds new incentives to drive him onward but, along the way, he may be too aggressive and too arrogant - both traits to conquer, since they lead to resentment and enmity. Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Beach Boys. Ah, the memories. Sun, surf, high school. The rumbling '55 Chevy whose rearview mirror always sported huge white angora dice knitted by a girl named Bobbi.

California music memories. And such is on tap again tonight for those tuning in "The Beach Boys," a one-hour special starring the lads who created what press agents still call "the surf" sound.

It's on NBC, which screened it in advance here. Alas, we missed 15 minutes of it, having been delayed by a one-mile-an-hour headwind created by 300,000 cars up ahead on the freeway.

But what we saw of "The Beach Boys" convinced us it should be given a Grade-A Nifty rating. It's not another nonstop TV concert of flashing lights, leaping troubadours and addled crowds.

Nope, it's an imaginative blend of surreal comedy, quick looks at the private lives and thoughts of the five Beach Boys, mullings of various California cats and assorted happenings, all wrapped around the music and sights of a Beach Boys concert held near here in July.

It's an impressionistic show, intended to create the feel of the easy-going California lifestyle that was part and parcel of Beach Boys music in the early 1960s and still is, to a certain extent.

Sometimes it's simple stuff, a rendition of "Same Song" at a Baptist church in suburban Compton. And then, there's the other kind of stuff.

Like a sun-tanned kid saying "one of the ultimate things is riding a pool" as a pal skateboards around an empty swimming pool. The scene leads to a shot of a young surfer, riding a pee-wee Banzai Pipeline wave at the beach as we hear the Beach Boys sing "Sloop John B."

We also see Brian Wilson, the main brain of the Beach Boys, the guy who dropped out for three years to put his head in order, lying in bed (a running gag) explaining his theory of writing songs.

We later see him again, being hauled out of bed by two California Highway Patrol troopers, members of the "surf squad" who cite him for "failing to surf" and to do same on a state beach.

They whisk him to the beach in a patrol car with siren blaring, lights flashing, a surfboard atop the car as "Surfin' U.S.A.," a Beach Boys biggie, goes full tilt in the background.

This might strike a few viewers as weird, but it makes for enjoyable looking and listening.

Portrait Presented

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Portrait Gallery says it has been presented a portrait of Sarah Porter which was painted in 1896 by Robert B. Brandegee.

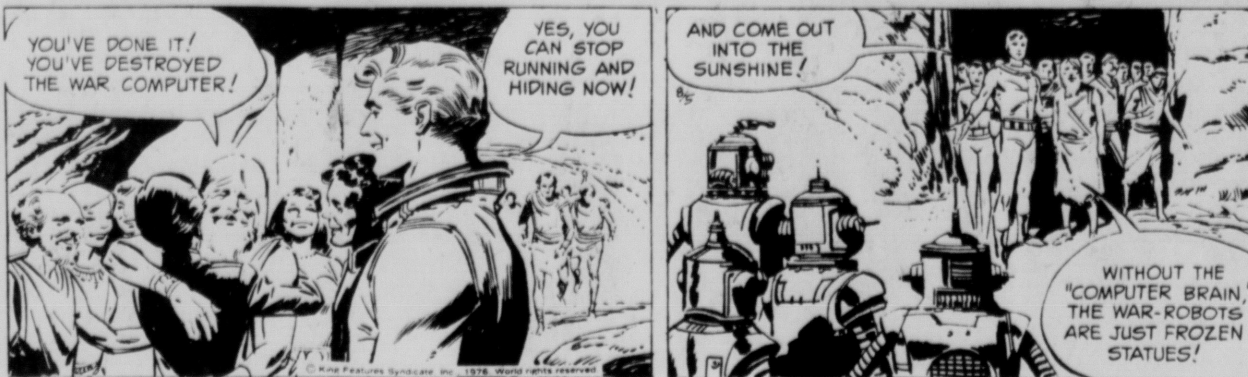

Miss Porter was founder of Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn., and "was a pioneer in the secondary schooling of young women in this country."

3 Remain Jailed In Kidnaping

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — Three men accused of abducting 26 school children and their bus driver remain jailed on $1 million bail each today as prosecutors maneuver to avoid further open court sessions until trial.

In a move that may soon be moot, Justice Court Judge Howard C. Green scheduled a preliminary hearing Aug. 26 for James and Richard Schoenfeld and Frederick N. Woods.

During a 45-minute hearing Wednesday in a heavily guarded courtroom in this Central California farming community, acting Madera County Dist. Atty. Charles Hoffman said it was likely that the bizarre case would be presented to the new county grand jury for indictments.

Such a strategy would avert the necessity for the state to expose its evidence in open court at a preliminary hearing, thereby sending the case directly from the closed grand jury to Superior Court.

A gag order is in effect on evidence seized against the trio.

Appearing somber and flanked by a dozen armed guards, Woods and James Schoenfeld, both 24, pleaded innocent to 43 felony charges of kidnap and robbery in the July 15 abduction of the children.

The youngsters and bus driver Edward Ray were herded into a poorly ventilated van buried at a Livermore rock quarry owned by Woods' father 95 miles north of here. They dug their way out 18 hours later.

Alluding to a cut hand Ray received during the incident, the white-haired judge told the defendants:

"I want to make you aware that the first count of kidnaping of Frank Edward Ray carries with it a penalty of life imprisonment without parole because he suffered bodily harm."

Woods licked his lips nervously and Schoenfeld stared at the floor.

Mortgage Legislation Given New Shove By Senate Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is an urgent need for legislation that would restructure traditional mortgages to make home ownership a part of the American dream again, according to testimony before a Senate panel.

At a hearing on the new mortgage concept Wednesday, a Senate subcommittee on housing and urban affairs was told that the mortgage proposal could help millions of Americans now priced out of the housing market to buy their own homes.

The panel was told the plan, contained in a bill sponsored by Sen. Edward M. Brooke, R-Mass., could nearly double the number of citizens who own their own homes.

Basically, the bill would allow mortgages to be arranged so that monthly payments increase over the life of the home loan. This would allow a family to make higher mortgage payments years after the initial purchase as family income increased with inflation.

For example, under a traditional 25-year, $30,000 mortgage at 8.5 per cent interest, the homeowner would pay $2,899 per year, not counting such items as insurance and taxes, for the life of the loan.

Under the Brooke formula, the homeowner's payment would start at $2,149 per year and increase to $5,143 in the 25th year.

Kenneth T. Rosen, a Princeton University economist testifying for the measure, said inflation pushing up family income would make it possible to meet the higher payments in later years of the mortgage. But in the crucial first year of the mortgage, the initial monthly payment would be reduced by nearly 25 per cent.

"This will substantially increase the home ownership market, bringing it within reach of the nearly 60 per cent of all American families as contrasted with only one-third of all families who can afford home ownership at present," the economist said.

Legionnaires Worried

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Thomas Allandar and a few friends riveted their attention on the television at the bar of American Legion Post 182. A killer disease makes the evening news very personal.

"It's an eerie feeling," said Allandar, a 50-year-old traveling salesman. "Seeing your friends fall by the wayside, one by one. It's a baffling situation."

Allandar had a friend, Elmer Hafer, who attended the state Legion convention two weeks ago. He is dead now, a victim of the strange, flu-like illness dubbed "legionnaire's disease."

"People are upset now," said Allandar. "If you cough sideways or sneeze, you say, 'My God, what am I getting?'"

Allandar is one of 260,000 legionnaires in Pennsylvania. His eerie feeling is shared across the state.

"When is it going to stop?" asked Edward Hoak, state adjutant. "When will it start to level off? Will there be any more?"

Richard Schoenfeld, 22, who surrendered to Alameda County authorities nearly a week before his brother and Woods were apprehended separately on July 29, has also pleaded innocent. But his request Wednesday for a sharp reduction of his $1 million bail was rejected.

The younger Schoenfeld sat with his head bowed as attorney William Gagen described him as "a classic case, a good candidate for bail."

Gagen noted his client's youthful age, his surrender, and "except for a charge of vehicle tampering, he has no criminal record." He urged that the bail be lowered to $50,000.

Hoffman vigorously opposed any reduction. He noted that the younger Schoenfeld visibly blanched when Green told Schoenfeld at his arraignment last week that conviction could carry a maximum penalty of life in prison without parole.

He said Schoenfeld's fresh awareness of the punishment posed "a grave danger, a great possibility Mr. Schoenfeld would fail to appear in court in the future."

"Taking into consideration the seriousness of the charges, the bail will remain at $1 million," Green ruled.

The three men were then flown back to the Alameda County jail.

As a five-car convoy left the new government building in Chowchilla to take the defendants to a nearby airstrip, a crowd of 250 townspeople watched while helmeted sheriff's deputies stood by. There were no incidents.

DRESS WINNER — Judy Reichelderfer, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Reichelderfer, Tarlton, won first place in Clothes for school II.

Ford Gains Fame In Veto Overrides

WASHINGTON (AP) — The congressional override of President Ford's veto of the coal-leasing bill makes him the third U.S. president to lose 10 or more veto battles with Congress. President Andrew Johnson suffered the most overrides, Harry S. Truman comes in No. 2 and Ford is No. 3.

Since becoming President on Aug. 9, 1974, Ford has vetoed 54 bills. He has been sustained in 15 showdowns with Congress and has been overridden 10 times, the most recent being Wednesday's override of the coal bill.

That bill sets tighter restrictions on coal leasing and other rights on federal lands and increases from 37.5 per cent to 50 per cent the royalties that go to states with such lands within their boundaries.

Ford had not opposed the higher royalties but said he vetoed the bill because other provisions would require that leased land be put into production within 10 years, permit state governors to block for six months a surface coal-mining lease, and require the Interior Department to survey coal resources on federal lands. Ford said these provisions would decrease production.

Ford's defeat Wednesday was his third this year. Congress earlier overrode his vetoes to enact measures on public works employment, military construction and appropriations for the labor and health, education and welfare departments.

Democrats cheered the surprisingly decisive override of the coal-leasing bill veto and claimed it showed evidence that "the people are counting on us."

The House vote was 316 to 85 to override. The Senate had acted a day earlier, voting 76 to 17 to override.

House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said the House vote shows that "our congressional leadership continues to win against the negativism and do-nothing policies of the administration."

Rep. John J. McFall, D-Calif., the party whip in charge of turning out the vote, had predicted a close contest for the two-thirds majority necessary for an override.

As it turned out, Democratic ranks were almost solid — 249 to 16 to override. Republicans split, 67 to override, 69 to sustain. The veto was overridden with 48 votes to spare.

Andrew Johnson, the recordholder, was beaten 15 times during a four-year presidency that produced 29 vetoes. Truman was overridden 12 times on 250 vetoes in eight years.

Ford is seventh on the list of presidents with the most vetoes — behind Franklin D. Roosevelt with 635 spanning 12 years, Grover Cleveland 584, Truman 250, Dwight D. Eisenhower 181, U.S. Grant 93 and Theodore Roosevelt 82.

From George Washington to Ford, there have been 37 presidents, 94 congresses, 2,346 vetoes and 88 overrides.

Lebanon Truce Holds

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A new cease-fire was declared in the Lebanese civil war today, and five hours after the deadline a Palestinian spokesman said only minor volleys of gunfire marred the truce in Beirut.

"A few mortar shells also were lobbed into the Tal Zaatar Palestinian refugee camp, killing one woman," the spokesman said. "But no serious threat has occurred so far to the truce."

A Christian radio station reported no truce violations in any part of Lebanon.

The latest of more than 50 truces in the 16-month-old war went into effect after a night of heavy fighting in which rightwing Christian forces claimed they had conquered the Moslem slum of Nabaa in eastern Beirut, not far from Tal Zaatar.

"The so-called nationalist forces in Nabaa have surrendered," said a spokesman for the Christian Phalange party. "Mop-up operations were completed before the new cease-fire went into effect."

But leftist leaders insisted fighting was still raging from house to house in Nabaa. They appealed to Arab peacekeeping forces to intervene and "stop the Fascist invasion of Nabaa."

Nabaa and Tal Zaatar, the besieged Palestinian refugee camp, were the last enclaves held by the leftist Lebanese Moslems and their Palestinian allies in the Christian half of the capital.

The Palestinians were still holding out in Tal Zaatar. But the Christian siege has neutralized the threat of the camp's guns to the highways from Beirut to the Christian hinterland northeast of the capital.

The International Red Cross, after evacuating 334 wounded from Tal Zaatar Tuesday and Wednesday, suspended its efforts for at least a day because sniper bullets hit one of its cars Wednesday and shells exploded near a truckload of wounded.

The firing wounded no one, but "we cannot take it lightly," a Red Cross spokesman said.

He said the Red Cross hoped to resume the evacuations after new consultations with the warring factions. Red Cross workers said privately that the sniper fire came from within the camp.

An estimated 89 persons were reported killed and 154 wounded in fighting during the night before the cease-fire.

A truce committee of Syrians, Lebanese and Palestinians was to meet later today with representatives of the Arab League at Sofar, 18 miles east of Beirut, to review the progress of the cease-fire.

The agreement calls for Arab League peacekeeping troops to man buffer zones between the Moslem and Christian sectors of Beirut within 48 hours.

The capital's airport, closed since June 17, is to reopen for international traffic before Aug. 15, and Arab League forces are to take control of all roads to the airport from the Palestinians.

Lori Neal Claims Champion Of Junior Fair Steer Show

GRAND CHAMPION STEER — Lori Neal prepares to accept the trophy donated by The Circleville Herald for exhibiting the Grand Champion Steer at the Pickaway County Fair. Presenting the trophy are Karen Gifford, Logan Elm FFA Queen; Terry Hampton, King of the Fair; and Ann Congrove, 1976 Fair Queen.

But this year will be a little more satisfying for her.

The steer will be the first sold tonight at 6 p.m. Last year, Lori was forced to fill in at the steer sale for her sister, April, who injured her foot shortly after winning the championship.

Here are the results of the show, including breeding classes:

Class 1
1. Jackie Bigam, 2. Sheri Somers, 3. Eric Dick, 4. Anjanette Maxson, 5. Kevelyn Maxson.

Class 2
1. Nolan Hines, 2. Ramae Huggins, 3. Kenny Speakman, 4. Nathaniel Barnhart, 5. Robin Bigam.

Class 3
1. Ann Bowser, 2. Bob Winter, 3. Craig Schein, 4. Peggy Derflinger, 5. Lori Shannon.

Class 4
1. Lee Bowser, 2. Beth Reichelderfer, 3. Matt Perrill, 4. Paul Goode, 5. Paul Teegardin.

Reagan Loses 2 Delegates

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Ronald Reagan's choice of Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., as his vice presidential running mate has apparently cost him two Kentucky delegates to the Republican National Convention.

A copyrighted survey in the Louisville Courier-Journal indicates that two former Reagan delegates are now uncommitted because of Reagan's appeal to the GOP left in his choice of the liberal Pennsylvania senator.

Kentucky will send 37 delegates to the GOP national convention later this month in Kansas City. State law dictates that on the first ballot, 19 of those votes will be cast for President Ford, with 18 going to Reagan in accordance with the outcome of the May 25 presidential primary. The delegates are free to change their votes on succeeding ballots.

According to the latest survey, Reagan now holds claim to 24 second ballot delegates, eight are for Ford, four are uncommitted and one calls himself "almost uncommitted."

Probers Narrow Disease Cause

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Medical researchers seeking to identify the disease which has killed 22 persons have narrowed down its likely cause but say they still do not know what it is — and may never know.

Further clues to the flu-like "legionnaire's disease" may come today when first results are available from tests being conducted behind sealed doors at the state health laboratories in Philadelphia.

Until the disease is identified, health officials said there is little they can do. Treatments or vaccines must await identification even though state officials have prepared the machinery for a massive inoculation program should it be necessary.

"I've never seen anything like it," said Jay Satz, the top disease expert in the state health department. "It'll take time. In fact, we may never find it."

A 23rd death from the disease was reported by a Philadelphia hospital Wednesday, but state officials had not yet attributed it to the illness.

State health officials reported Wednesday that 130 persons were hospitalized with confirmed cases of the disease. Like those who died, all attended or had some connection with a state American Legion convention which drew 10,000 people to Philadelphia two weeks ago.

They also reported there was still no indication of secondary spread of the disease to family members or others who came in contact with the victims. None of the hospitalized victims have yet been released.

There were reports of the disease in New Jersey and New York, but they involved people who had attended or had some contact with the Legion convention.

The federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta reported Wednesday that initial tests there indicated the disease was probably the result of a virus, fungus or toxic substance.

Researchers there ruled out plague and Lassa fever, a highly contagious African disease. They also ruled out most bacterial diseases.

Swine flu was said to still be a possibility, and Congress was pushing toward passage of legislation to clear the way for the nationwide swine-flu immunization program.

"We cannot say it is swine influenza or say that it is not," said Dr. David J. Sencer, director of the Center for Disease Control. "Each day that goes

Gas Boost Blocked

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Public Utility Commission voted 3-2 Wednesday to block Columbia Gas Co., Pittsburgh, from boosting some rates by 17.6 cents a day beginning Thursday.

The PUC suspended the $21 million annual rate increase pending investigation and hearings.

The 17.6-cents increase would have been for home heating customers. Nonheating customers were due a 4.9 cent a day hike.

PUC Chairman Louis J. Carter and Commissioner Michael Johnson supported the motion to suspend by Commissioner Helen O'Bannon.

Commissioners McGirr Kelly and Robert K. Bloom were opposed. Kelly said he favored a staff recommendation to allow a first step $4.1 million increase and suspension of the rest.

The company, which got its last increase in 1974, serves 330,000 customers in 26 Pennsylvania counties.

by without a spread from family to community makes us rest easier that it is not swine flu. But it is still too early to say."

In Philadelphia, meanwhile, about 400 calls an hour were coming in to a hotline set up at City Hall. Spokesmen said the callers "aren't panicking, but they're apprehensive and concerned."

The disease has not reduced attendance at the 41st International Eucharistic Conference, a worldwide gathering of Catholics expected to attract one million people before it ends Sunday, when President Ford is scheduled to attend.

However, the American Legion announced in Washington that it was canceling a planned trip to Philadelphia today by 600 boys and girls.

Weather

Partly cloudy with a chance of showers or thunderstorms today, tonight and Friday. High today in the low 80s, low tonight in the middle 60s with a high Friday in the upper 70s. Chances of precipitation, 40 per cent today and 70 per cent tonight and Friday. Wednesday's high was 82 with a low during the night of 62.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, showing signs of losing the upward energy it displayed earlier in the week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off a fraction in early trading. Gainers took a slight lead over losers in the over-all count of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted some disappointment over the market's late showing Wednesday, when prices gave up most of an early gain.

Today's prices included Olin Corp., down 1/4 at 40 3/4; Winnebago, off 1/4 at 6 1/4, and Joy Manufacturing, unchanged at 46 1/4.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average posted a 1.95 gain to 992.28.

Advances held a 5-3 edge on declines among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index added .17 to 55.78.

Thieves Take Radio From Plant Office

Clarence Hancher Jr., 1039 Lynwood Ave., told Sheriff's deputies that someone broke into the Earnhart Hill Sewage Plant Office off Route 23 sometime between 4 p.m. Tuesday and 7 a.m. Wednesday.

The thieves took a portable AM-FM radio belonging to Hancher. The radio was valued at $40.

According to Deputy Nick Franklin's report, the thieves gained entry to the building by breaking the window on the north side and cutting the screen. Damage was set at $50.

Paul Ertel, Columbus, reported that thieves entered his property near Winchester Road Wednesday and stole a television set from a house on the property.

The set was valued at $150.

The culprits gained entry by throwing a piece of firewood through a window. Deputy Larry Kellenberger set damage to the windows at $30.

Fred G. Lambert, 108 W. Front St., New Holland, told Sheriff's deputies that he observed two subjects take a bicycle from his property 10 p.m. Wednesday.

Lambert gave chase when the subjects fled.

Both persons were quickly apprehended by New Holland Marshall Frank Wood and turned over to Sheriff's Deputies.

Charged with petty theft is Ronald E. Warnock, 19, London. The Sheriff's office has also filed charges against a juvenile in the case.

The Sheriff's department reported the attempted theft of a woman's purse from the Pickaway County Fair at 1:05 a.m. Thursday.

According to the report, Mrs. Mary Hiler, New Washington, Ohio, was sitting in the bleachers at the fairgrounds with her husband and some friends, when one of the men noticed two juvenile boys take Mrs. Hiler's purse from the step of the bleachers.

Karl Hiler and the men chased and caught the juveniles and held them until deputies arrived. Mrs. Hiler's purse contained two checkbooks with blank checks, eight credit cards, and $105.45 in cash.

Both juveniles have been charged with grand theft.

The sheriff's department investigated a grease fire at the Harris residence at 2460 Kingston Pike. Circleville firemen extinguished the blaze.

The kitchen area sustained considerable fire and smoke damage, but no injuries were reported.

Battle Tank Cooperation Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and West Germany are going to cooperate on construction of a new million dollar battle tank, although the move will drive up the cost of each tank by 15 per cent.

The tanks will be used by NATO troops in Europe, and are being designed to blunt the threat from a new Soviet tank planned for the Warsaw Pact nations, Army Secretary Martin Hoffman said Wednesday.

He said a German-designed 120-millimeter gun and a U.S.-designed turbine engine will be used in both the U.S. XM1 tank and the West German Leopard II. Originally, the U.S. Army planned to choose between the tanks after staging a face-off between test models.

That competition will still be held starting this fall at the Army's Aberdeen Proving Ground in Maryland, Hoffman said, but the results will just be used to aid the drive toward standardization.

Hoffman acknowledged that the joint production will drive up costs of each $1.08 million tank by 15 per cent.

With the Army planning to purchase 3,325 new tanks, that could amount to an added cost of more than $500 million.

But Hoffman said standardization will afford greater battlefield effectiveness for NATO's tanks.

"We need to field the next generation of tanks as fast as we can to meet the threat" from the Warsaw Pact nations, said Hoffman.

He forecast a four-month delay in the U.S. tank development program as a result of the new moves toward "commonality" of engines, guns, fuel, ammunition, transmissions, tracks and fire control equipment.

Two U.S. firms, General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp., have been developing competing designs of the XM1 tank.

The Army still intends to choose between a General Motors design with a diesel engine and a Chrysler design with a gas turbine engine.

Battle Tank Cooperation Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's floor manager for the Republican National Convention predicted today that the party's presidential nominee will be chosen without the bitterness of previously contested GOP conventions.

Sen. Robert Griffin of Michigan said with 12 days to go before the convention opens in Kansas City all signs are for "a lot more harmony and togetherness ... than newsmen might like or expect."

He predicted a first ballot victory for Ford, and said Ronald Reagan's campaign officials have indicated they probably will not use procedural issues to deny the President delegates committed to him under laws in 19 states.

At a breakfast meeting with reporters, Griffin also said, "At this point there don't seem to be any real battles shaping up on the platform."

Griffin said, "There seems to be real effort on both sides to avoid dramatizing the differences among Republicans rather than focus on differences with Republicans, which is what the platform is for."

Without elaboration, Griffin said, "I think the result (Ford's nomination) is going to be pretty obvious before the gavel comes down in Kansas City."

Connally Lashes Out At Republican Critics

CLEVELAND (AP) — Former Texas Gov. John B. Connally Jr. lashed out Wednesday night at Republicans who want to keep him off the party's vice presidential ticket on grounds that he is tainted by Watergate.

U.S. Rep. William S. Cohen, R-Maine, said in Washington that even though Connally was acquitted on a charge of taking a bribe in a milk bribe scandal, putting him on the ticket as President Ford's running mate would resurrect Watergate.

Responding to statements by Cohen and U.S. Rep. Thomas Railsback, R-Ill., Connally told a news conference he "wasn't in any way involved in Watergate, and if they implied that I was, they are guilty of the grossest kind of misconduct."

"I'm not going to stand by, vice presidential prospects or not, and let Mr. Railsback or Mr. Cohen besmirch me any longer," Connally continued.

Railsback and Cohen were members of the House Judiciary Committee during impeachment proceedings against former President Richard M. Nixon.

They have told White House aides they should review tapes of White House conversations that led to the raising of milk price supports.

Connally said Cohen's and Railsback's actions resembled totalitarian tactics and told the news conference he was not in the govern-

Police Probe Reports Of Prowlers

Circleville Police investigated two prowler reports Wednesday evening. Gilbert Grooms, 150 E. Main St. returned home with his wife at 9:37 p.m. and noticed that the lock on the door of his body shop had been tampered with, and the shop had been broken into. Patrolman Pontious and Fletcher were sent to investigate and found no one in the building. Nothing had been taken, according to the police report.

Geneva Woodward, 319 E. Main St. reported to police that she heard a noise downstairs at her back door around 9:12 p.m. When she went downstairs, she saw two subjects running toward Main Street. Police discovered that the screen in Mrs. Woodward's storm door had been cut approximately 10 inches near the handle, and the door had been unlocked.

Bill Weldon, 410 S. Court St. told police at 2:20 p.m. Wednesday that someone had taken a statue from the grave of his great aunt. The incident took place in Forest Cemetery.

Roger D. Konkle reported the theft of a box of motorcycle parts from his car, parked on the rear of his property at 898 S. Court St. Konkle told police that he parked the car there on July 28, and noticed the parts missing Wednesday. Thieves had entered the car from the passenger side door.

Robert Boysel, 343 E. Ohio St. told police that when he went to feed his rabbits Tuesday he found that one had been killed. The animal had been stabbed several times with a sharp object.

Local Woman Writes Book

Dr. Faye Dix Marshall, a former Pickaway Countian, has written a book entitled "Managing the Modern School Library."

Mrs. Marshall is the daughter of Lana Williamson Dix, who is presently a resident of Pickaway Manor, and George E. Dix. Her father was an agriculture teacher at Laurelville for many years and later taught in the Amanda School system. He also served as an advisor for the Future Farmers of America fruit tree spraying service.

Married to the Rev. Dr. Robert H. Marshall, the author is presently residing in Austin, Texas. She received her masters degree in library science from the University of Toledo and has over 10 years experience as a public school librarian.

Her book is a source for the librarian containing information on every subject from obtaining free library materials to points on how to keep the shelves attractive. It is published by the Parker Publishing Company, West Nyack, N.Y.

In addition to library topics, Dr. Marshall also writes on a variety of subjects including psychology, religion, inspiration and philosophical fiction.

Hedges Chapel United Methodist Church will be sponsoring an old fashioned ice cream social to be held at the church on Sunday. Hours will be from 4 to 7 p.m. Included on the menu will be homemade ice cream, chicken and ham sandwiches, cookies, tea and lemonade.

There will also be a country store with items to be sold.

Mrs. Hattie Rife would like to thank everyone who remembered her on her 94th birthday with cards and gifts. She received over 70 cards.

She would also like to thank the relatives and friends who attended her birthday dinner last Sunday at the Pickaway Arms. She really enjoyed seeing so many former Ashville people.

The South Bloomfield Booster Club will be having its annual yard sale on Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the yard of Webster's Carry-out.

The neighbors and friends of the Gale Sawyer family on Cromley Street wish to extend their deepest sympathy to Mrs. Sawyer on the death of her brother, Lee A. Fiser, of Columbus on July 23.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Walden Sherman held a gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Crookham, Kim and Kathy on July 25. Those attending in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Sherman and the Crookhams were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Sherman of Wagoner, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sherman, Cathy and Randy of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. William Sherman and Brent; Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Sherman, Sue, Nancy and David; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sherman, Donna and Donald; Mrs. Phylliss Gernovich; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sherman, Lisa and Renee; Mrs. Georgia Griffith and Margaret; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Neff and Bruce; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Althaus, Linda, Terry, Ricki and Rhonda; Mr. and Mrs. Omar Abner, Kyle and John; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Martin; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Caplinger and Derek; Mrs. Armilda Iden, Rodney, Troy, Jolene and Darnette and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Watkins.

A pair of girl's eye glasses have been found at the Village Church. These were left there during the 4th of July celebration or around that time. They may be returned to the owner by calling the pastor, the Rev. Starling Morrow.

David McCain will be celebrating his 94th birthday on Monday. Cards would be appreciated by him I'm sure.

On Sunday McCain was the dinner guest of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McCain of Circleville and on Friday was visited by Paul McCain of Grove City.

Bob Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Smith, is recuperating at the home of his parents following a motorcycle accident. The accident occurred on July 25 when he lost control of his cycle and received abrasions on the left side of his body. He was taken to Doctors Hospital,

West, following the accident.

On July 26 he was taken to Mercy Hospital by the Harrison Township Emergency Squad for treatment of an antibiotic reaction.

Randy Wharton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wharton, underwent arm surgery in Doctors Hospital, West, last week.

Through the efforts of the UMYF the Village United Methodist Church now has a new bulletin board-sign. The Youth members have been working quite hard to make the necessary money to purchase the sign. They were assisted by leaders Dick and Clarabelle Pobst and Brenda and Dave Gibson. Also helping erect the sign and with the many projects of the group were Marge and Cy Stickel.

Following the church worship service last Sunday the group served cookies, punch and coffee to the congregation in dedication of the sign. These young people are to be congratulated, along with their advisors.

The Everfaithful Sunday School Class of the Zion United Methodist Church will again have a stand at the annual Farmer's and Merchant's Market on Aug. 18. They will be featuring baked goods, with miscellaneous items on sale also.

Floyd Gray, the wrestling coach of Teays Valley High School, underwent surgery last week at Beth Israel Hospital in Boston. He underwent a 21-hour operation for the removal of a blood clot from the brain. During this time a total of 154 units of blood were used.

If you missed the bloodmobile unit at Circleville this week you may make donations in Gray's name at the Blood Center in Columbus.

Wildlife Needs Help

Conservationists once were worried that the North American bison, otherwise known as the buffalo, was becoming extinct. Great numbers of the beasts were killed during the nineteenth century for skins, food and sport. Although now largely contained on government-protected lands, the bison has recovered to the point where its herds are deliberately thinned by hunters. If the good fortune of the bison is an indication of the power of aroused public demands for conservation, other wildlife is in need of publicity. Conservationists estimate more than 50 species of wildlife which formerly roamed this land in plentiful numbers are now dangerously close to annihilation.

Many species of animals and birds have been irretrievably lost to this generation and all future peoples. History does not record all the creatures which once inhabited the very spots now supporting large cities, lakes and farms.

Nothing can be done to bring back these denizens. The ranks of other inhabitants of the earth seem destined to diminish as the human population grows unless a concerted effort is made to provide sanctuaries.

Let There Be Light

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — Charles T. Clift, director of the Syracuse (N.Y.) Burnett Park Zoo, was having trouble with some of his animals. They had finicky appetites and, worse, seemed disinterested in sex. The life-blood of zoos, of course, is a turnover of animals - and it's accomplished much cheaper by procreation than acquisition.

Clift's problems were solved after he read about experiments in lighting being conducted in animal and horticultural labs, where seeming "miracles" were taking place when sickly subjects were placed under the type of fluorescent that simulate natural sunlight.

Sunlight-simulating tubes that were installed throughout the zoo quickly vitalized the critters into building love nests. "The zoo turned into a veritable maternity ward," with a litter of cougars, eight baby lambs, 20 doe, one husky bear cub, a new mini-kangaroo, a cuddly infant chimp, "and even a partridge. In a pear tree, of course. The tree also thrives."

Across the country, people who deal with animals and plants are discovering what God knew all along - sunlight is vital to the growth of all things great and small. And now that major companies are making lamps that cover the full spectrum of the sun's rays (they're usually called "full-spectrum lamps," matter of fact), they are being used often in enclosed areas of laboratories, zoos and plant nurseries. According to the Duro-Lite Home Lighting Institute, which is at the forefront of the simulated-sunlight movement (its fluorescent is called the Vita-Lite), the new lamps can be lifesavers even in the home... if you can get your sick dog or lethargic cat to sit still under their glow.

Almost every animal needs light to thrive, even as flowers and vegetables do. The length of time, intensity and wavelength distribution of light energy affects the way buds set, flowers open, the sex of a fruit and the rate of maturation. In the same way, light affects insects, fish, birds and larger animals.

In the past couple of years, independent researchers have been studying the value of simulated light on animals removed from their natural habitats, and on pets who can't be outdoors enough or who live in climates that offer insufficient sunshine.

Josef Laszlo of the Reptile Department of the Houston Zoo (he's now with the San Diego Zoo) found that reptiles were turning a scornful eye on dinner under the standard cool white fluorescents habitually used by zoos. He found that, by substituting full-spectrum lamps, the vipers were turned on to food.

Not only that, Laszlo saw the "miraculous" revival of one snake. His once-healthy Trimeresurus trigonocephalus snake had lapsed into lethargy and refused food and was on the brink of death. When a 15-watt full-spectrum fluorescent was mounted in an open-type fixture above the floor of his cage, the snake - within three days - began vibrating its tail when touched, "and graciously began accepting mice."

At New York's famed Bronx Zoo, joy came to the Aquatic Bird House. Ornithologist Don Bruning bought the sun-simulating lamps, which produced an intensity of approximately 100-foot candles, and installed them in the bird house to induce the tufted puffins to puff their tufts. They developed adult plumage and laid eggs, which hatched into baby tufted puffins (thank heavens, it wasn't anything else). In fact, all birds tended to respond sexily to the lights.

Not only sex and appetite, but bone structure improves with sunlight effects. Researchers at the University of the Pacific, Tufts and the V.A. Out-Patient Clinic in Boston have found that when male golden hamsters are raised under cool white fluorescent, they have five times as much dental decay and reproductive gland retardation as hamsters from the same litter (and on the same diet) raised under Vita-Lites.

The research on animals and plants is conclusive. The next step is to try man on a full-spectrum light diet.

Auto Talks Center On Seniority

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers demanded stronger seniority rights for older workers and reduced subcontracting of work done by skilled tradesmen in contract demands presented Tuesday to Chrysler Corp. The union also wants contract language making it easier for older workers to transfer from manual labor jobs to easier posts, such as inspections, said UAW Vice President Douglas Fraser.

While Fraser admitted such a policy could cause some inefficiencies at auto plants, he added, "So be it. The top priority should be the well-being of the human being."

The union also said it wants to force Chrysler to prepare detailed cost-benefit presentations on all proposed subcontracting of tool and die work before those jobs can be let to outside shops.

Tuesday's proposal calls for the union to be given a chance to argue its capabilities to do such work competitively. Standards written into the contract would determine whether the work would be sent out, and the union wants to be able to impose penalties on the company when those standards are not met.

In the 1973 contract which expires in mid-September, the auto companies agreed to make such presentations before farming out maintenance and construction work. But there are no binding standards which can stop the work from going out.

At Chrysler, the UAW won the right to strike over subcontracting of maintenance and construction work. At General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co., such after-the-fact disputes must be submitted to an umpire before a strike can be authorized.

Today is Thursday, August 5, the 218th day of 1976. There are 148 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in History:

On this date in 1963, the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union signed a treaty outlawing nuclear tests in the atmosphere, under water and in space.

On this date—

In 1884, the cornerstone of the Statue of Liberty was laid at the entrance to New York Harbor.

In 1962, the movie star, Marilyn Monroe, was found dead in her Los Angeles home.

Ten years ago: Three European scientists who had pioneered in atom-splitting research were named to share the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission Fermi Award.

One year ago: A Massachusetts court ordered reinstatement of Alger Hiss as a member of the bar. He had been disbarred in 1952 after being convicted of perjury in denying he had delivered State Department documents by Whittaker Chambers, a confessed Soviet spy courier.

Today's birthdays: The first man to set foot on the moon, Neil Armstrong, is 46 years old. Movie director John Huston is 70.

Thought for today: There is no substitute for hard work — Thomas Edison, American inventor, 1847-1931.

Bicentennial footnote: 200 years ago today, an adviser to General George Washington proposed that he withdraw his army from New York and burn the city to deprive British attackers of a base of operations.

Herschel Brumfield, a 22-year-old Circleville policeman, resigned unexpectedly. No reason was given for the action by Brumfield or Chief of Police Elmer Merriman.

A search for a plane which reportedly crashed in western Fairfield County turned out to be a false alarm, but not until the rescue effort had reached near comic proportions. A caravan of Sheriff's Deputies from three counties, emergency equipment from Lockbourne Air Force Base, and dozens of thrill seekers raced madly looking for the plane without any luck.

Children lost in Circleville and found by city police were to receive free ice cream while waiting for their parents. The plan was sponsored by a national ice cream concern.

Despite repeated assertions of little or no progress in peace talks, speculation stirred when it was announced that negotiations in the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Company strike would not resume for several days. The strike, which crippled 24 Ohio counties including Pickaway, was in its 23rd day.

Dan, the faithful horse retired in 1955 after many years of service pulling an ice wagon around the city, passed on to whatever glory awaits all friendly Dobbins. The 34-year-old grey horse was a familiar sight to local residents, grazing in the pasture beside the ice plant on Island Road.

LAFF - A - DAY

"Remember when we used to save our money to go on a vacation instead of to go out to dinner?"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is there no way to control the misleading medical information that is casually handed out on radio and television by so-called "experts" who are not doctors, or even trained professionals?

Recently on TV, four women were being interviewed about hormone injections, birth control pills and the value of an only child family. I've never heard so much misinformation. It must certainly disturb other readers besides myself.

Mrs. H. T., Penn.

Dear Mrs. T.: Unfortunately, some programs are created with the main objective of capturing the attention of viewers rather than providing sound medical advice.

All of us have known people who believe that, having recovered from a particular disease, they are automatically authorities on that disorder.

I have listened with dismay and have heard 16-year-old post-heroin addicts speak with the authority of sociologists about the cause, the prevention and the cure of drug addiction.

All of us have heard the person who, after a few sessions with a psychotherapist, expounds about the ego, the id, the superego, guilt, obsession, hostility and aggression.

They "authoritatively" know the advantages of Freudian, Jungian and Adlerian schools of psychotherapy and will "fight to the death" with anyone who has the temerity to dispute them.

And, on the other side of the coin, there are those who deny the value of any kind of psychotherapy simply because their own experience was not a satisfactory one.

I recently heard a round table discussion on television advocating the advantages of marital infidelity. It was a shocking display of the exploitation of a medium that deserves better control by local and Federal agencies.

There are rigid rules of broadcasting to protect us from misinformation about medicine, health and scientific material. Most experts adhere to these rules and do, indeed, give vital, hopeful and correct information to viewers.

Some, however, in an effort to deal with the spectacular, will depart from those rules, violate them and still somehow stay within the framework of the law.

Medical information that vitally affects the viewer is too precious to be accepted without question. The only way that a viewer can possibly have this information evaluated for him is to bring it to the attention of his own doctor.

Only in this way can we be protected from the overenthusiasm of those self-made "authorities."

Auto Industry Investigation Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government regulators are going to scrutinize the auto industry's economic structure in what may be the first skirmish in an antitrust battle against the U.S. auto giants, General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

The Federal Trade Commission announced Tuesday that it is proceeding with a full-scale probe that its staff called for last November. The agency said it has cleared the action with the Justice Department.

The investigation itself is expected to be time-consuming, and if the government finally decides to file antitrust charges, a court battle is certain to stretch on for years.

The Justice Department will not be directly involved in the probe, but if the FTC develops a criminal case against the automakers, Justice Department officials will move in. The FTC is empowered to bring only civil cases.

In Detroit, the automakers denounced the latest government action, which climaxes sporadic federal attempts over the years to challenge the bigness of the "Big Three."

General Motors Chairman Thomas A. Murphy, whose company controls more than half the U.S. auto market and is considered the prime target of any antitrust effort, declared in a statement:

"After decades of almost constant investigation by the Congress and the antitrust agencies into every facet of the American auto industry, it seems that we will be called upon to demonstrate once again that the business is intensely competitive and operating in accordance with the law. We expect to do so, but deplore the waste of public and private resources that the task will entail."

Ford President Lee A. Iacocca called the FTC decision "unfortunate and unnecessary."

The Justice Department itself was on the verge of launching a major antitrust attack against GM in 1968, but dropped the suit because of a lack of support from the incoming Nixon administration.

The Justice Department is already waging protracted antitrust battles against two other titans of American industry, IBM and American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The FTC announcement came on the heels of an FTC judge's rejection on Monday of a staff recommendation to force AT&T to divest its manufacturing subsidiary, Western Electric.

The FTC said the probe would focus on "the economic structure of the American automobile industry, of the economic performance of firms, both domestic and foreign, engaged in the manufacture and distribution of automobiles."

"Among the matters to be investigated are pricing policies, scale economics, vertical integration and automobile distribution practices," its terse statement said.

The FTC announcement stressed that "the existence of an investigation does not imply that violations of law have occurred."

Alf Landon's Political Words Of 1936 Re-Echo

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — "Mounting debts and increasing taxes constitute a threat ... They absorb the funds that might be used to create new things or to reduce the cost of present goods."

The words sound as though they could come from this year's political campaign. They do not, however.

They were spoken 40 years ago by Alf M. Landon, then governor of Kansas, as he formally accepted the Republican nomination for president on July 23.

"There now has appeared in high places ... a new and dangerous impulse," Landon said at another point in his speech. "This is the impulse to take away and lodge in the Chief Executive without the people's consent, the powers which they have kept in their state governments or which they have reserved in themselves."

"In its ultimate effect upon the welfare of the whole people, this then is the most important question before us: Shall we continue to delegate more and more power to the Chief Executive or do we desire to preserve the American form of government?"

Landon, who will be 89 in September, said in an interview that the memories of that hot July night are still vivid.

"I felt the burden of the heavy responsibilities I was assuming; whether I had done a creditable job in outlining the issues which I intended to define more fully later, and which I believed meant so much to the future of our country," Landon said.

"I never worked so hard on a speech. I don't think I finished it until the night before."

"But the two main issues I outlined are still major issues facing our country today ... unlimited inflation resulting from deficit spending and the enormous increase in the size and power of the federal government..."

Landon lost the election. President Franklin D. Roosevelt was re-elected to his second term by a landslide.

Landon's acceptance speech came six weeks after he had been nominated by the Republican National Convention.

Special trains brought Republicans and friends to Topeka from across Kansas and surrounding states.

There was one of the biggest parades Topeka had ever seen.

The parade started at 4 p.m. in 104-degree heat. Floats, military units and more than 100 bands and drum and bugle corps headed south on the main business street in downtown Topeka, then headed west into the blazing afternoon sun on the street immediately south of the Statehouse grounds.

The notification ceremony and acceptance speech began at 8:30 p.m. on the south steps of the Kansas Capitol. The temperature still read 95 degrees.

"I don't remember the heat, I was too busy with other things," Landon said.

"It was exciting, particularly the parade and the enormous crowd."

Newspaper estimates placed the crowd at close to 100,000.

Following the ceremony and speech, there was a fireworks display on the Statehouse grounds. Then the special trains began pulling out of Topeka on their return trips.

Other passages from the 1936 Landon address also might come from today's campaign oratory. They included:

—"If we are to go forward permanently, it must be with a united nation — not a people torn by appeals to prejudice and divided by class feeling."

—"... The primary need still is jobs for the unemployed."

—"We must be freed from incessant governmental intimidation and hostility. We must be freed from excessive expenditures and crippling taxation. We must be freed from the effects of an arbitrary and uncertain monetary policy. And, through a vigorous enforcement of the antitrust laws, we must be freed from private monopolistic controls."

—"Let me emphasize that, while we propose to follow a policy of economy in government expenditures, those who need relief will get it."

—"By its policies the administration has taken the American farmer out of foreign markets..."

—"I shall cooperate wholeheartedly with Congress in an efficient reorganization of the numerous government agencies, to get rid of those that are not necessary, to eliminate duplication, to insure better administration and to save the taxpayer's money."

Group Sells State Products

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A small state office with 14 employees and a $500,000 annual budget is taking on the world—to sell Ohio products and recruit foreign firms.

"The challenge of this office is you are working for both business and government," said Charles P. Bolton, manager of the Ohio Office of International Trade.

Economics, labor and politics around the world play an important part in the office's activities.

In addition to being economists and understanding corporate business practices, staffers must be multilingual and comprehend government bureaucracy.

The office has five professional staffers and three secretaries in the Department of Economic and Community Development in Columbus. Two European offices—located at Dusseldorf, Germany and Brussels, Belgium—each have two professionals and a secretary.

Another trade office will open this year in Japan with a professional and a secretary.

The international trade office has two main functions—encouraging export of Ohio products abroad and recruiting foreign officials and manufacturing plants to Ohio.

To help Ohio companies export, Bolton said the office:

—Helps find foreign distributors to market Ohio products. At no cost, the office helps determine the marketability of products. It will publish a notice of the desire to have the product distributed and list it by standard industrial classification codes in the overseas Ohio trade newsletters.

—Develops trade leads through business contacts with foreign businessmen and commercial offices of American embassies.

—Represents for a fee Ohio companies at trade fairs. This year Ohio companies were represented at a health care equipment fair in Stockholm, Sweden. Each firm paid $200 compared to $2,000 it would have cost to send their representatives.

—Organizes trade missions. Gov. James A. Rhodes has led missions to Europe and Asia, and in October will conduct another mission to Japan, Hong Kong and Singapore. Businessmen can meet with foreign officials and business leaders.

To help attract foreign investors to Ohio the office:

—Conducts tours of Ohio sites for foreign businessmen. Sites are selected after the general requirements, such as energy, transportation and labor, are known.

—Recruits at trade shows, trade missions and through regular contacts with foreign offices.

Farmers Remain 'Soldiers Of Soil'

MADISON, Ohio (AP) — The ranks are thinning but farmers Perry and Phyllis Quayle remain steadfast "soldiers of the soil."

"Farmers are probably closer to God," said the 52-year-old Lake County resident. "You are soldiers of the soil and you realize you don't do it by yourself. You realize you are dependent on the weather."

Quayle reluctantly gave up his dairy operation when two of his six sons left home. He grows 17 acres of grapes and sells grain and hay to horse owners. Quayle owns 80 acres of land and farms a total of 125.

None of his children has indicated interest in maintaining the family operation, which the Quayles credit to the community lifestyle.

"Of course we don't live in a farm community anymore," Quayle said. "Today most farmers raise grapes and have jobs off the farm, too."

The Quayles and their children have worked together in all phases of the farm, their results filling two freezers and cans and jars of home-produced food.

"For as large a family as we had, I never thought the grocery bills were exorbitant," she said. "The kids say I make the best grape jelly in the whole, wide world."

"The best thing about a farm child is the mother never invents busy work for them...there is always something they had to do," Mrs. Quayle added.

"Farmers have to be eternal optimists. If you have a bad year, you think next year will be better," said Quayle, who was born in the house where he lives. "We didn't have that enormous struggle to start. Today it is almost impossible to begin a farm."

Both are active in the farm bureau where Quayle is president, and Mrs. Quayle is a board member and leads women's activities.

Quayle joined his father on the farm at the end of World War II. He said his father tried to discourage him from entering agriculture, but "I like it. You take pride in what you're doing and you see the end result. When you work someplace you don't see the finished product usually."

Miss Deborah Ann Davis Bride Of Randall Thompson

MR. AND MRS. RANDALL THOMPSON

The marriage of Miss Deborah Ann Davis and Mr. Randall H. Thompson took place 7:30 p.m., July 16, in the First Church of Christ in Christian Union.

The Rev. David Cyrus performed the double ring service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Davis, 622 Renick Ave., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thompson, 7583 Tarlton Road.

The church was decorated with two seven-branch candelabra with white tapers, flanking the altar holding vases of white gladioli and yellow, blue and white daisies. White satin bows with greenery marked the pews.

Mrs. Neil Frazier, organist, presented a half-hour program preceding the wedding.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and mother. For her wedding she selected a formal length gown of white lace. The bodice featured a sheer lace yoke, cameo collar and long sheer lace sleeves. The full skirt was edged with a ruffle at the hemline. The tiered veil was held with a band of daisy and pearl appliques. The bride carried a white Bible topped with a cascade arrangement of blue, white and yellow daisies with purple statice and baby's breath tied with white ribbon forming streamers tied in lovers' knots.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Arthur Timmons, was attired in a navy blue and white chiffon floor length dress with white accessories. Her bouquet was similar to that of the bride.

Mr. Arthur Timmons, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, performed the duties of best man. Usher was Mr. Steve Davis, brother of the bride.

A reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church immediately followed the ceremony. The bride's table, covered with a white cloth was centered with a three tiered wedding cake with white swans between the layers and topped with bride and bridegroom figures. Daisies and greenery surrounded the cake.

Hostesses were Mrs. Milton Davis, Mrs. Steve Davis, Mrs. Gary Stevens and Miss Tina Montgomery.

The new Mrs. Thompson is a graduate of Circleville High School and is employed at Pickaway Auto Parts.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Logan Elm High School, is employed at Eshelman's Mill. The couple now resides at 517 S. Scioto St.

Shower Honors Guild Members

Berger Hospital Guild 52 met at noon Friday at Ted Lewis Park.

Eight members were present for lunch and a baby shower for members, Susan Foley and Cindy Trainer. Cake and punch were served after the gifts were opened.

Barbara Souders, Terry A. Perry Become Engaged

BARBARA MIRIAM SOUDERS

The engagement of Miss Barbara Miriam Souders and Terry Allen Perry is announced by her mother, Mrs. Roscoe Souders, 360 Brown St. Mr. Perry is the son of Mrs. Charles Barnes, Lancaster, and Mr. Richard Perry, Alexandria, Va.

Miss Souders, also the daughter of the late Mr. Roscoe Souders, is a 1973 graduate of Circleville High School. Her fiancé, a graduate of Lancaster High School in 1975, is employed by Loroco in Lancaster.

A September 18 wedding is being planned for 6:30 p.m. at First Apostolic Church of Lancaster. The tradition of open church will be observed.

Flower Show Set At Vets Hospital

The annual fall flower show will be held 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Sept. 8 at the recreation hall, building 9, at the Veterans Administration Hospital.

This year's theme will be "America The Beautiful, A tribute To The Bicentennial."

Twenty-three garden clubs from four counties will cooperate to make the show a success. The show is open to the public with no admission charge. Anyone may enter the show but entries will be received only 1-4 p.m. on Sept. 7. Judging will begin at 5 p.m. on that date.

The show is a therapy project for the hospitalized veterans.

The Pickaway Garden Club will hold a workshop on Sept. 7. Members and other volunteers will help the veterans prepare their entries for the show.

46th OFWC Convention At Otterbein College

The 46th annual state Convention of all the garden clubs of the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs has been scheduled for Aug. 10-12, in Cowan Hall, Otterbein College, Westerville, starting with a 6 p.m. o'clock buffet on Tuesday evening.

Part I of "America Grows In Floral Art" will be presented at 7:30 p.m. in Cowan Hall by Robert Shaeffer of Lancaster who is a graduate of the Hixon School of Design in Cleveland and was the recipient of Designer of the Year Awards in Michigan, Virginia, and Washington, D.C.

Also on the stage at the same time will be Mark McCutchan of Evansville, Ind., who attended Michigan State University and majored in Horticulture and Floral Design. He was a special guest designer at the Florist Association Convention at Detroit in 1969 and has received awards in flower shows in Indiana, Michigan, Kentucky and Ohio.

On Wednesday there will be tours, followed by the President's Reception and the annual banquet. Honored guest and speaker will be Dr. Kenneth W. Reisch, Associate Dean, College of Agriculture and Home Economics, Ohio State University, whose topic will be "A Tree For Tomorrow".

40th Anniversary Feted With Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Adams, 230 E. Main St., celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary Sunday at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tatman, Route 2, Kingston. A dinner was served in their honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams are the parents of four daughters and one son: Mrs. Eddie (Linda) Moore, Circleville; Mrs. John (Bonetta) Chaffin, Grove City; Mrs. Joe (Ruth) Callihan, Wellfleet, Neb.; Mrs. Francis (Betty) Floyd, Boalsburg, Pa., and Jack Adams, Hilton, N. Y.

Present for the dinner were the honored guests, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Adams; Mr. and Mrs. John Chaffin, Angela and Michelle; Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Moore and Chastity; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tatman, Delbert, Douglas and Wayne; Gene Floyd, John Swiple, Jennings Rucker and Larry Callison.

Christian Women Plan Luncheon

Circleville Christian Women's Club will meet for lunch and a program 11:45 a.m. Wednesday at the L-K Restaurant, Route 23 South.

The special feature will be "Fashions By You" style show. Music will be by Laura Dixon and guest speaker is David Sharkley from Dublin.

Free baby sitting is provided and sack lunches are to be brought for each child.

Reservations are to be made with Jane Schneider 474-4839 or Karen Clark 474-5442.

Cookbook recipes usually specify that dried mushrooms be soaked before using. But recently dried mushrooms that do not need soaking have appeared on supermarket shelves. Read the label!

Shower Honors Mrs. Dale Imler

A baby shower honoring Mrs. Dale (Kathi) Imler was held Thursday at Kline Krest Farm, 26900 State Route 104. Hostesses were Sharon Kline, Ginny Arledge and Loche Kline.

An antique bassinet held the gifts beneath a dome umbrella decorated in yellow.

The guests included Barbara Easter, Helen Imler, Sharon Imler, Carol Easter, Ruth Brumfield, Mary Baker, Jane Hedges, Iona Kline, Eula Easter, Eric and Tracy; Tonja, Mitzi and Amber Kline.

Gifts were received from Ollie Easter, Mary Ann Shaw, Mary Greiner, Fay Gallion, Bonnie Schroeder, Belinda Shaw, John Easter, Lola Ertel, Patsy Winner and Arthur Haynes.

A pineapple and lime molded dessert was served with party cookies and lemonade to complete the event.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

If Food Has Smell Be Sure To Tell

DEAR ABBY: A lady wrote to ask what she should do while dining at someone's home if the food doesn't smell right, and I couldn't believe your answer. (You told her not to mention it to the hostess just "disguise" the food on the plate, and pretend to eat it.)

Abby, how could you? Don't you know that if food smells bad (especially fish), it's spoiled and therefore poisonous?

As one who has suffered from seafood poisoning, I implore you to admit that your advice was wrong. Tell people to immediately inform the hostess that the food might be inedible. It would be a kindness to the guests and certainly to the hostess.

If I were a hostess, I'd rather be forewarned than be responsible for poisoning my dinner guests.

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Back off. You didn't read that answer in MY column. I'd have said, "Tell your hostess at once. Speaking up beats throwing up."

DEAR ABBY: Mike and I have been going steady for nine months, and one thing has bothered me for a long time his cheapness.

Yesterday we went to the beach, and on the way home we stopped for something to eat. Mike said he was broke and asked if I would mind paying for our lunches, so I did.

After lunch we stopped to gas up the car, and when Mike was paying for the gas, I saw two $10 bills and several singles in his wallet.

This isn't the first time this has happened. He has asked me to go to a movie and then asked me to pay for the tickets. He has only him to support, so I can't understand it.

I work hard for my money and Mike knows it. He also works, but he doesn't spend any money on me unless he has to.

I don't want to break up with him

Workers Return At Steubenville

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Striking Steubenville police and firemen obeyed a court order to return to their jobs Wednesday night.

Meanwhile, representatives of the safety forces met with city negotiators and presented a wage proposal which scaled down their increase demand from 20 to 12 per cent. City officials took the proposal under study.

Strikers returned to work in response to a court injunction issued at the city's request after the walkout, which began earlier in the day, left this city of 31,000 with only six persons on duty in the two departments.

Arguments In Reserve Case Slated

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The 8th Circuit Court of Appeals is expected to hear arguments in St. Paul in October on Reserve Mining Company's appeal of a shutdown order issued by U.S. District Judge Edward J. Devitt.

Attorneys in the case have agreed on a schedule for submitting briefs and giving oral arguments. The court is expected to approve the schedule in a formal order.

Under the plan, Reserve will submit its first brief by Aug. 28, the state will reply by Sept. 20, the company will submit a second brief by Oct. 4 and oral arguments will be held the week of Oct. 11.

Devitt issued an order July 7, ordering reserve to close its controversial taconite plant at Silver Bay by midnight July 7, 1977.

The order began a one-year timetable set by the 8th Circuit in March 1975. The Circuit Court had said that if the company and the state could not agree on an on-land dumping site for taconite wastes, the company would be given one year to close.

It is generally believed that Devitt could modify his order and extend the timetable if the two sides can settle on a site soon.

Reserve has offered to begin construction of a land-based disposal system at Milepost 20, near Silver Bay.

The state wants Milepost 20, a site further inland from Lake Superior. The Milepost 20 sites has been recommended by a state hearing examiner, Wayne Olson.

The company now dumps more than 60,000 tons of taconite waste per day into Lake Superior from the Silver Bay plant. The 8th Circuit Court called the dumping a potential health hazard and ordered the company to stop.

Attorneys disagree on when the one-year shutdown period can begin. The company has argued that the state has not taken final action on its Milepost 7 application because the rejection by state agencies is being appealed in state courts.

National Road Important To Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Before the National Road was built in Ohio in the late 1830's there were other long roads in the state, although none had the importance of the National which the government by 1837 had built from Wheeling, W. Va., to just west of Springfield.

There was a stagecoach line between Columbus and Cleveland in 1820, and five years later a weekly mail stage line linked Dayton and Columbus. It took two days to go from Cincinnati to Dayton, a mere jump of a few minutes by airplane in our time.

Long before that, in Ohio history, a pack horse was the simple means of moving a cargo overland, just as a canoe was the chief means in the water. Soon after the French and Indian War ended the France's colony hopes, wagons began to appear in Ohio country, although the roads were nothing but paths cut through the forest. Mud was thick and sticky and horses could not pull large wagons through the bog. Strong oxen were harnessed, and the ox cart arrived. Even the oxen had difficulty, and teams of four or even six were needed.

Finally the Ohio pioneers hit upon the idea of improving the roads by placing logs across the route, side by side. Such "corduroy" roads were better for the oxen, but jolted the passengers constantly.

"Zane's Trace" was built from Wheeling to Maysville in 1797 by Ebenezer Zane. Part of it was to become, nearly a half century later, a portion of the historic National Road.

It is an interesting point in Ohio history that at the very moment Gov. DeWitt Clinton of New York was jabbing a spade into the earth at Licking Summit, near Newark, Ohio on July 4, 1825, to start the work on the Ohio Canal from Portsmouth to Cleveland—a similar ceremony was under way in front of the Belmont County courthouse at St. Clairsville. There work was beginning on the Ohio portion of the National Road, one of the high points from which grew Ohio's extensive highway network today.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Want to do something different with your last few weeks of summer vacation? Why not have some fun in the kitchen? The Children's Room has a whole shelf of cookbooks — some of which are presented in such a manner that you can enjoy reading them even if you don't plan to cook!

A good one to start with is "Raggedy Ann and Andy's Cook Book". Here you'll find lots of pictures of the famous rag dolls and their friends as the pair tells you how to make their very favorite things — delicious food!

If you are acquainted with Winnie the Pooh and Christopher Robin, you certainly won't want to miss "The Pooh Cook Book". Honey is an important ingredient in this text, and each recipe has a quotation from "Winnie-the-Pooh" or "The House at Pooh Corner". Among the intriguing recipes are instructions for concocting "A Very Nearly Tea" and "Hippy Pappy Bthuthdth Thuthda Bthuthdy Cake".

Another book about food and storybook characters is "The Storybook Cookbook". Recipes here will teach you how to make Pinocchio's poached egg, Hans Brinker's waffles, the Queen of Hearts' strawberry tarts, and Robinson Crusoe's homemade bread, to mention only a few. Along with the recipes you will find brief descriptions and illustrations of all the stories, as well as quotes from the books about the foods.

If "Phantom Eggs", "Old Stagecoach Sausage Loaf", "Detective Burgers", or "Sleuth Soup" sound interesting to you, you'll want to investigate the "Nancy Drew Cookbook". The above recipes are just a sample of the many dishes the famous young detective shares with her readers. And most recipes come complete with a special "clue" for adding variety!

Primary school age children with a yen to fix it themselves shouldn't have trouble making the snacks described in "How to Make Elephant Bread". The fun easy-to-read text covers "Elephant Bread" (peanut-butter sandwiches), "Chocolate Cat" (you-know-what-kind-of-milk), and other treats with a twist.

In addition to the above and other "special" cookbooks, the Children's Room has plenty of books of basic beginner's cookery. "My Learn to Cook Book", "Cook-In", and our newest, "Betty Crocker's Cookbook for Boys and Girls", are only a few. Come see them all for yourself and then surprise your family and friends with something delicious!

Derby News

Those who helped to make this year's Derby Vacation Bible School a success are Sandy Spradlin, Inez Peterson who were in charge of the kindergarten class; first and second grades — Ruth Gillam, Marci Jo Durlinger, Linda Steele, and Lisa Mayer; third and fourth grades — Jacqui Rice and Marsha Spradlin; coordinator, Linda Weimer; music, Sally Graham; refreshments, Betty Caudill and Carolyn Onewehr; other helpers included Pat Jeffries, Frieda McPherson, and everyone who sent cookies.

The Derby Homecoming was a big success as usual and a lot of Derby residents, IOOF Lodge and Men's Club members gave of their time and effort to make it so. Also, the Good Lord blessed us with ideal weather except for a little rain, just to remind us He is still the Boss.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Coleman and family dropped in on the Archie Sweets Saturday after attending the Derby Homecoming.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gillespie and son Kenneth visited with the Joseph Clem family of Columbus the past week.

Vacation Bible School will be held Aug. 9-13 at the Southwest Community Church of the Nazarene. Young Adults Retreat will be Aug. 13-15.

Stoutsville To Seek Levy Renewal

Stoutsville Village Council adopted the resolution to put the renewal of the 2 mill levy on the November ballot at the regular monthly meeting presided over by Mayor E. A. Thiel.

The council also accepted the resignation of Bill Sark as street commissioner and a replacement will be named in the near future. Charles Harrison reported on his findings concerning the replacement of the present police cruiser. The mayor stated that several traffic offenders had been arrested.

Clerk Mary E. Meyer read a letter from the Penn Central Railroad stating that they have not abandoned the tracks through the village as stated in a previous letter. Marshall Bill Sark was authorized to purchase necessary supplies to update his department. Current bills were approved for payment. Next council meeting will be September 7.

Railroad Crowning Ohio Achievement

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The crowning achievement of Ohio's transportation system on land, without question, was the railroad which followed the highways, the canals and the steamboat to move the state's people and products more rapidly, and more efficiently.

Historians mark that the Fourth of July has been the notable date in the history of Ohio transportation. It was on Independence Day in 1825 that Ohio's canals and her section of the National Road began. But far away in Maryland, July 4, 1828, there was a ceremony involving a third means of travel, rivaling the canals.

Charles Carroll of Carrollton, then the only living signer of the Declaration of Independence, laid the cornerstone of the office of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The people who had invested their money in canal bonds did not awaken until a few years later to the fact a deadly enemy was approaching, for the rail system was creeping across the mountains. The railroads then began to appear inside Ohio.

A Toledo doctor, in 1832, planned the first such railroad line in Ohio, the pioneer rail company west of the Alleghenies. It was called the Erie and Kalamazoo, but it ran only as far as Adrian, Mich. The legislature of Michigan granted the charter on the ground it was "a mere fanciful object" and could do no harm. The company was formed in 1835, and the next year the road was opened with horses instead of locomotives.

The first railroad wholly inside the state was the Mad River and Lake Erie from Dayton to Sandusky. The charter was granted in 1832, and the Sandusky-Belleuve section, 16 miles, was opened seven years later. The entire line, from the lake to Dayton, was in operation by 1844. Four years later there was a railroad across the state, the Little Miami, from Cincinnati to Springfield, connected with the Mad River and Lake Erie. Columbus welcomed its first train in 1850.

Denim Clothing Boom Aids Cotton Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The boom in denim-clothing sales has been given major credit for pulling U.S. cotton farming out of a slump, but the cotton farmer still gets only 6½ cents out of each dollar that consumers spend on jeans.

That's the calculation of the Agriculture Department's Commodity Economics Division, which by way of comparison reports that farmers last year got 64 cents of the beef dollar and 19 cents of the bread dollar.

The biggest piece of the denim

dollar, 42 cents, goes to the retailer and the wholesaler, reports Edward H. Glade Jr. of the USDA agency.

The least amount goes to the cotton ginner, who gets less than a penny, and the marketing firms, which get just over a penny for moving the cotton from the production area to the mill.

Glade said about 20 per cent of cotton for clothing goes into blue jeans. From the farmers' point of view, that was 613,400 bales in 1974, the last year for which firm figures are available.

That represented a 35 per cent jump since 1970 and didn't count the fiber for denim book covers, jackets, dresses, handbags, saddlebags, cover-alls and other denim products.

An additional 30 cents goes to the manufacturers for styling, cutting, sewing and the label. Twenty cents goes to the textile mills for spinning the farmer's raw cotton into yarn after ginning, for dyeing the yarn and for weaving it into rolls of denim for the manufacturer.

Others in Glade's division pointed out that fashion trends, are only one factor in the fortunes of the fiber farmer. Price competition from still-cheaper man-made fibers has more impact, they said, since cotton can now claim only about 30 per cent of the market. Economic recession last year deepened the slump throughout the textile business that began two years ago.

In response to the fashion swings, a 50 per cent jump in spring cotton prices and higher government production-loan rates, cotton farmers planted 1.5 million acres more this year than last.

Local Women Attend OU Conference

Sharon N. Downard, of Columbus, Nancy Shollenberger, 131 Dunmore Road, and Tom and Edith Downing, 163 W. Mound, participated in a conference on the United States Constitution which was presented by Ohio University with support from the Ohio Program in the Humanities July 19-23 at the Athens campus.

The five-day conference was designed to be a bicentennial inquiry into the ideological background of the U.S. Constitution and the influence these humanistic roots have had on the American character.

A highlight of the week was a performance by noted actor, James Earl Jones, who read selections derived from works read or discussed as topics during the conference.

Keynote speaker for the conference was scholar and essayist George Anastaplo, who spoke on "Founding and Refounding: Two Centuries of Experience."

The conference, under the direction of Dr. Edward Quattrochi, associate professor of English at Ohio University, was the fourth annual humanities conference presented by the University. It was sponsored by the English Department in cooperation with the Office of Workshops, Conferences and Institutes.

Motorcycle Class Winners Announced

Jo Ann Estep and Gene List were the class champions of motorcycles at the Pickaway County Fair.

Miss Estep won the Junior division, while List was the senior champion. Here are the results:

Junior

1. Jo Ann Estep, 2. Jim Winter, 3. John Pontious, 4. John Pettibone, 5. Taylor Dennis.

Senior

1. Gene List, 2. Dave Myers, 3. Jeff Karshner, 4. Mike McCabe, 5. Perry McCalla.

BEST SPORTS CLOTHES — Jackie Cave, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cave, 9770 Zane Trail Road, won first place in Sports Clothes II.

KIDS DAY — Young people seemed to be taking advantage of reduced rides on the midway of the Pickaway County Fair Wednesday during the annual Kids Day. In some places, food and drinks were also reduced.

Organic Farming Would Cut Output

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pure organic farming throughout American agriculture would cut production of hard-red winter wheat by 50 per cent, corn by a third to one-half and citrus almost entirely, Agriculture Department officials say.

Organic farming, the practice of using natural predators and fertilizers instead of chemicals, "is not economical for large parts of the country," the officials said.

The assessment came recently in written responses by Assistant Secretary Robert W. Long to questions from the House Science and Technology Committee and in materials prepared by economic analyst Earle E. Gavett for the Farm Index magazine.

Top USDA policymakers like Secretary Earl L. Butz and economics director Don Paarlberg routinely speak of an agricultural future of large, highly mechanized farms employing the latest technology—and that means largely inorganic farming. Butz often scoffs at the organic farmers and their concern about those chemicals.

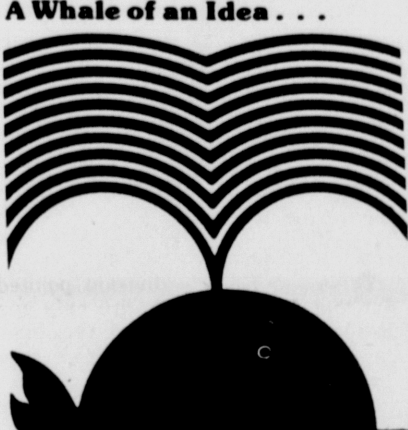

Long and Gavett said research by the USDA and landgrant universities "indicates that the feasibility of pure organic farming...depends on the kind of farm in question, the crops produced and the type of soil."

Their report did not mention the apparent popularity and success of organic farming in the backyard vegetable garden, but did address major money crops.

Studies in the Great Plains "found that without the application of nitrogen fertilizer, our production of hard-red wheat could drop by as much as 50 per cent. U.S. farm exports would suffer, not to mention the diets of millions of people in less-developed nations that depend on our wheat," Long and Gavett.

Rotating a wheat crop with legumes that fix nitrogen in the soil would exhaust the soil moisture in the Great Plains where there is sparse rainfall, they said.

Ken Anderson Still Forgotten Quarterback

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Football fans who focus on the careers of star quarterbacks like Fran Tarkenton, Joe Namath and Terry Bradshaw might be hard-pressed to name the top passer in football for the last two years.

His name is Ken Anderson and his stellar achievements may be among the best-kept secrets in the football world. But it's no secret to his teammates.

"With the career he has already had," noted center Bob Johnson, "a lot of quarterbacks would've been household words by now."

The Augustana College graduate passed for 3,169 yards in 1975, completing 60.5 per cent of his passes, to lead the National Football League for the second straight year. Last January, he finally was named to the Pro Bowl for the first time in a five-year career.

Johnson thinks the national press might take more notice of Anderson if the Bengals advance farther in the league playoffs.

"I think we have to win more big games than we have," he said. "We play two Monday night games this year—that'll help. Because Kenny certainly deserves all the credit he can get."

Bob Trumpy doesn't think Anderson is looking for all the credit he can get. "It's just not in his nature to have a

"I'm the one" type of attitude. He went to a small school and has taken his success very well. He could've really gone on an ego trip, but he didn't.

"He's really down to earth," Trumpy added. "In fact, too much. Right or wrong, we've begun to encourage him to raise a little hell. If someone does something wrong, like if they get through, tell somebody. Be a field general."

But, the veteran receiver added, "He just isn't a pushy person."

"That's not Kenny's personality," agreed Chip Myers. "He leads by example. All he has to do is continue to perform great and when he says something, be sincere. We don't need a cheerleader."

Myers said one reason Anderson doesn't receive more publicity is "the nature and size of the town we have in Cincinnati. You don't have to be a great player to get national press. It's playing in cities like New York, Chicago and Los Angeles where you receive national acclaim."

"You can't blame Cincinnati," countered Trumpy. "I think he's content with just the people who know football recognizing his good. His teammates know he's the best, everybody in football knows he's the best."

"Maybe there's not that much to tell about Kenny," Trumpy mused, "and I think he wants it that way."

Reds Drop 4-1 Game To 'Count'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds tried everything including flattery against San Francisco's John "The Count" Montefusco. "Are you going to take that hit?" the Giants' pitcher yelled at Johnny Bench after the Reds' slugging catcher singled in the second inning Wednesday on a grounder that stopped 20 feet from home plate.

"I told him I'd take anything I could get against 'The Count,'" Bench said after Montefusco notched a 4-1 victory over the Reds, who hoped to take an eight-game winning streak into their important series in Los Angeles opening tonight.

Gary Matthews belted a two-run homer off Gary Nolan, 10-6, in the first inning and doubled in the eighth, coming home on Darrel Evans' single. Randy Moffitt pitched the ninth to save the victory for Montefusco, 11-9, who threw 136 pitches and admitted, "That's a lot."

"But I should have shut them out," added the talkative righthander who enjoys facing the world champs, win or lose. "I honestly think I can win 20 games this year. I only need nine more, and if I can beat these guys, there's no reason why I can't beat anyone else."

Montefusco was at his best in three key faceoffs with George Foster, the National League's RBL leader. He struck out the ex-Giant three times with runners on base.

"The Count was great against George. It wasn't anything George did wrong," said Pete Rose. "That strikeout in the first inning was the big one, with runners on second and third."

Foster said, "He gave me my pitch, the fastball, a couple of times and I didn't hit it. I sure couldn't hit his pitch, the breaking stuff, so the result was three strikeouts and a lot of guys left on base."

Although the Giants ended a four-game losing streak, at least one player, shortstop Chris Speier, went away unhappy as the team headed for a game in Atlanta tonight.

Manager Bill Rigney has asked him to try his hand at second base, a position he's never played, after Johnnie LeMaster, called up from the minors Wednesday, joins the team in Atlanta and takes over at shortstop.

"I'm not ready to go along with it, at least not right now," said Speier, who has been with the Giants longer than any other current player and twice made the All-Star team as a shortstop.

"LeMaster's defensive game is as good as any shortstop's in the game today," said Rigney. "This just might make us a little better team."

And the Giants, in last place 22½ games behind the Reds, have a long way to go.

Jenkins, Bosox Stop Tigers, 4-1

By FRED ROTHENBERG

AP Sports Writer

Ferguson Jenkins doesn't win 20 games every year anymore. But every other year will suit him just fine.

"It's possible to win 20," said Jenkins after he pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 4-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers Wednesday night. "I've got maybe 14 starts left, and I'm hoping anyhow."

Jenkins scattered seven hits in raising his record to 11-8, including victories in his last six decisions. He was backed by home runs from Fred Lynn and Cecil Cooper.

The 32-year-old right-hander used to be a charter member of the 20 victories club. But twice in the last three years Jenkins failed to meet the eligibility requirements.

Each time Jenkins doesn't win 20 games he seems to get traded. So it didn't look like his stay in Boston was going to be a long one when he was logging a 1-5 record on May 11 and a 5-8 mark on June 25.

But he hasn't lost since.

"I'm just trying to be consistent, throwing hard and keeping it around the plate," Jenkins said. "I've been in the groove the last few ballgames. I think it's because of our four-man rotation."

"I'm getting runs to work with. I have to take the bitter with the sweet. I just hope the bitter was at the beginning of the season."

Elsewhere in the American League, the Oakland A's blanked the Chicago White Sox 5-0; the Kansas City Royals beat the Minnesota Twins 4-2; the Cleveland Indians stopped the Baltimore Orioles 3-0; the California Angels outscored the Texas Rangers 9-6, and the Milwaukee Brewers beat the New York Yankees 4-3, then lost the second game of their doubleheader, 7-2.

Brewers 4-2, Yankees 3-7

Catfish Hunter is another lodge brother in the 20-victories club, but he is in jeopardy of losing his membership key.

"I'm not happy at all with the way I've been pitching," said Hunter, a 20-game winner the past five years, whose record now is 12-11. "It's always just one inning that seems to hurt me."

The problem inning against the Brewers was the third and the problem batter was Sixto Lezcano, who smacked a two-run homer. Bill Travers, 13-8, tossed a five-hitter.

The Yankees bounced back in the second game, profiting from Chris Chambliss' two-run homer and two-run single.

Circleville Sets Physical Exams

Circleville High School Athletic Director Larry Cook announced that all junior and senior high school girl and boy athletes who are planning in participating in any sports program must have a physical examination from their family doctor before they will be eligible to compete in sports programs.

This is an Ohio High School Athletic Association rule.

No free physical examinations will be given this year as has been done in the past. Students for whom this physical presents a financial hardship are encouraged to contact Larry Cook at the high school, 474-7731.

5 Inductions Set In Grid Hall Of Fame

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Five former Ohio high school football coaches will be inducted into the Ohio High School All-Stars Hall of Fame during ceremonies Thursday at the Ohio Union.

The ceremonies precede the 31st annual Hall of Fame football classic between north and south teams, scheduled Friday night.

Those to be inducted include:

—Henry K. "Heinie" Schroth, who coached for 30 years in Ohio high schools, including Hebron Lakewood, Dayton Stivers, Jackson, Crooksville, Gallipolis, Bellville, Cardington, Highland, Marysville and Carlisle.

—Junie Ferral, a former Canton McKinley and Ohio State footballer who started coaching in 1933 and is now athletic director at Barborton.

—Abe Bryan, former Miami of Ohio footballer and head coach at Steubenville for the last 25 years.

—Edwin "Bud" Busher, whose coaching career spanned 40 years in Northern Ohio, including Minerva, Mt. Union and Lisbon. He was voted coach of the year in Columbiana County five times. Busher now is retired and serves as a probation officer in Columbiana County.

—Joseph A. Rich, present athletic director at Mineral Ridge High School. He coached football at Bergholz, McConnelsville, Warren St. Mary, Lordstown, Mercer County and Mineral Ridge.

Translation Needed For Baseball Contract

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — For Taiwan baseball players, Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium is a lot farther than just across the ocean—about six years farther.

The Cincinnati Reds last year signed two Taiwanese prospects, but the club has learned the players have at least six years of educational and military obligations facing them before they can honor the contracts.

Undaunted, the Reds signed another Taiwan player recently. When they got the contract, it was entirely in Chinese.

Braves Edge Jones, Padres, 1-0

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

San Diego ace Randy Jones, in pursuit of a 30-victory season, has been packing them in everywhere he goes. But Atlanta is not everywhere.

Only 2,715 paying fans turned up at Atlanta Stadium Wednesday to watch the winningest pitcher in the majors go after victory No. 19. And they saw him get loss No. 6 instead.

Dick Ruthven outdueled the Padres' ace 1-0 with a slick eight-hit, 10-strikeout performance.

"I wasn't worried about pitching against Jones," said Ruthven, 12-9. "The only time I worried about him was when he came to bat. I just wanted to keep them from scoring."

Elsewhere in the National League, Houston edged Los Angeles 1-0, San Francisco downed Cincinnati 4-1, Philadelphia beat Chicago 7-5, New York blanked Montreal 4-0 and Pittsburgh got by St. Louis 2-1 in 12 innings.

The Braves waited until the ninth inning before making Jones a loser. Rod Gilbreath led off with a single, his third hit of the game, and Jim Wynn followed with a booming double to left center for the game's only run.

"It's about time," said Wynn, who hasn't had much to shout about this season. "I think I'll go out and celebrate."

Astros 1, Dodgers 0

James Rodney Richard bested Doug Rau with a six-hitter. Greg Gross tripled in the sixth and scored on Enos Cabell's bloop single for the game's only run. It was the first time Houston had beaten Los Angeles in their last nine meetings.

Giants 4, Reds 1

Gary Matthews belted a two-run homer and scored another run on Darrell Evans' single as San Francisco ended Cincinnati's winning streak at seven games. John Montefusco picked up his 11th victory with relief help from Randy Moffitt. Gary Nolan, 10-6, was the loser.

Phils 7, Cubs 5

Mike Schmidt belted two home runs — Nos. 28 and 29 — and Tim McCarver hit his first of the season as Philadelphia overcame a 4-0 deficit. Seven of Schmidt's homers have come at Wrigley Field. Gene Garber, 7-2, won it with four innings of scoreless relief, and Joe Coleman, 0-5, was the loser.

Mets 4, Expos 0

Jerry Koosman raised his record to 13-7 with a four-hitter and Jerry Grote knocked in two runs with a triple for New York. Koosman, second only to Randy Jones in National League victories, won for the seventh time in his last eight decisions. Don Carriethers, 5-7, was the loser.

Pirates 2, Cardinals 1

Rennie Stennett scored on an infield grounder to give Pittsburgh its 12th-inning triumph. Stennett reached base on a fielder's choice, stole second, took third on Tommy Helms' single and scored on an infield grounder by Dave Parker. Pitcher Bob Forsch homered for the Cards.

The Allwood Stable's Savoir was voted the 1975 harness horse of the year.

Keeping Bait Alive Challenging

By JIM DAUBEL

For The Associated Press

Keeping minnows, worms and other natural bait alive in summer heat is a challenge that can pay off handsomely in more fishing success.

Little is required in the way of specialized gear, although advance planning and extra care are needed to keep your bait frisky.

Minnows are especially sensitive to heat and rapid changes in water temperatures. Without a reasonably controlled aquatic environment they won't last long when outside readings are in the 80s and 90s.

Water loses oxygen as it warms. To slow warming, either insulate the water or use larger quantities. I have had excellent results by transporting minnows during long auto trips in a 10-gallon milk can. On reaching my destination, minnows and some of the same water are transferred to an insulated foam plastic bucket.

The bucket goes in the boat and does a much better job of keeping minnows lively than does the metal type, even those with liners that are floated alongside the boat in warm surface waters.

The secret with a foam bucket is to replace some of the water frequently with like amounts of the water in which you are fishing. In so doing you keep the bucket water cool, avoid sharp temperature changes likely with a complete change of water, and you acustom the bait to temperatures it will be in when you actually bait your line.

Coolness also counts with other baits such as nightcrawlers and crayfish, although there are limits. I once stored several dozen softshell crayfish in lightly iced water and slowed their metabolism down so much that they appeared dead when I went to use them. Most eventually revived but not till long after I needed them.

You'll have much better luck with nightcrawlers if they're handled properly from the moment you capture or buy them.

Worms packed by dealers in plastic containers should be transferred to insulated boxes with covers to shield the contents from the sun. If you catch your own crawlers, store them in a dark place at temperatures between 45 and 55 degrees.

Styrofoam boxes sold for carrying cold drink six packs are ideal worm containers as are the pressed paper boxes sold for worms. Both are well insulated and "breathe" to provide ventilation.

For periods of up to several days, worms keep well in shredded newspaper, moss or leaves, all of which should be dampened with unchlorinated water so the "bedding" is moist but not wet enough to drip when squeezed. Special bedding material is good for keeping nightcrawlers for longer periods.

Keep worms boxes in a shady, ventilated place. Add a few ice cubes periodically to cool their environment or keep the container in an ice chest if possible.

Most bait can be kept indefinitely with proper handling under constant, cool temperatures and occasional changes of water or bedding.

Sam McIlvaine Is Speaker At Circleville Kiwanis Club

FAMILY REUNION DAY — Ray Cundiff (left), president of Circleville Kiwanis Club announced the club has joined with other Kiwanis Clubs the world over in proclaiming Family Reunion Day Sunday. In observance, as a Kiwanis family, the Circleville Club will hold a steak and hamburger picnic Monday at Ted Lewis Park. Bertus Bennett (right) is chairman of the event.

Sam McIlvaine was the speaker at Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday. Affiliated with Reynolds Aluminum, Ashville, McIlvaine showed a film, "Aluminum on the March." Guests included Frank Hudson of Ashville Kiwanis Club and Ed Bolen of Reynolds Aluminum.

Ray Cundiff, president, read a letter from the Pickaway Senior Citizens thanking Kiwanis in general and Charles Curlett and Art Goodwin in particular for the recent donations of an adding machine.

President Cundiff reminded members that Monday is the annual family cookout. He reminded Kiwanians and their families to bring their own table service.

Cundiff announced the last 105 Division Council meeting of the current year will be held Aug. 11 at Valley View Golf Course in Lancaster. There will be golfing during the day and dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Atom Plant Material Could Make Bombs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Countries being supplied with U.S. uranium now possess enough raw nuclear material to make about 1,000 atomic bombs, according to American and foreign experts.

And these experts said Monday that even if those countries wanted to return the nuclear material to U.S. control, the United States has neither the facilities nor the space to reprocess or store it.

A senior U.S. authority familiar with the situation came up with this explanation:

"If all this spent nuclear fuel is permitted to lie around indefinitely there is an obvious danger that some of it might be diverted for military purposes, despite international checks and treaties," he said.

"If, on the other hand, the United States were to exercise its option to buy back the spent fuel, then this country would in time become a dumping ground for highly hazardous material."

Spent nuclear fuel after reprocessing yields plutonium — an ingredient of atomic bombs.

Sources, including diplomats and scientists, estimated that more than 4,000 metric tons of spent fuel has piled up since about 1971 in Latin American, European and Asian lands, which buy low-enriched uranium from the United States.

This material would be enough to construct about 1,000 atomic bombs, the sources say. Such weapons presumably would be crude devices with the explosive capacity of the bombs that destroyed Hiroshima and Nagasaki at the end of World War II. The two bombs dropped on Japan in 1945 each had an explosive force of about 20,000 tons of TNT.

Indian experts said their country has a stockpile of about 200 metric tons. And despite frequent requests, the Indians said, Washington has avoided repurchasing it.

U.S. agreements of 1963 and 1966 with India included provisions that figure in most nuclear cooperation accords Washington has negotiated with friendly powers.

Under these agreements, the United States ships low-enriched uranium (meaning nonweapons grade) for use in nuclear power stations, then has first option to buy back spent fuel India doesn't need.

BICENTENNIAL COSTUME — Shannon Cherry, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Cherry, 5659 Bell Station Road, models the costume his mother, Becky, created to win the Child's Bicentennial Costume award. He also won first place in the costume at the Mt. Sterling Homecoming.

McKay Joins Kinetics

Frank D. McKay, Route 5, has been appointed Corporate Controller for the Consolidated Kinetics Corporation. This announcement was made by Laurence L. Eberhart, President and Chairman.

McKay will be responsible for the general accounting of the corporation, the management information system including cost accounting, and the automatic data processing department.

Prior to joining Kinetics, McKay served as corporate controller for the G. W. VanCamp Company, Circleville and as administrative assistant to the director of Scotts Lawn Care Service Division, O.M. Scott and Sons Company, Marysville.

McKay attended Northwestern University and the University of Cincinnati where he obtained his B.S. degree in commerce.

Consolidated Kinetics, a subsidiary of Peabody Gailon Corporation, manufactures noise and vibration control products and systems for industrial plant applications, the heating, ventilating, and air conditioning market, the architectural market involving multi-story buildings, and for subway systems such as the new subway in Washington, D.C. Kinetics products and systems are marketed throughout the United States and Canada as well as Europe, Scandinavia, the Middle East, and Australia.

Ban On Trapping Comes Under Fire

By JIM DAUBEL
For The Associated Press
A proposed ban on trapping would harm, not help, wild and domestic animal populations in Ohio, the chief veterinarian with the state health department says.

Dr. Jack H. Russell warned that reducing controls over certain wildlife populations could lead to an increase in diseases among animals in the wild, household pets and, in extreme cases, could endanger humans as well. Dr. Russell is chief public health veterinarian with the Ohio Health Department's Division of Communicable Diseases.

His observations came during an interview on the likely impact of a constitutional ban on use of the leg-hold trap in Ohio. Petitions are being circulated by antitrapping groups to submit a proposed constitutional amendment to voters in the November general assembly.

Without trapping, it is "reasonable and logical to assume that wild animal populations will increase," Dr. Russell said. "When that happens, disease will limit animal populations if man does not."

He itemized rabies, canine distemper, canine hepatitis, feline panleukopenia and canine herpes virus as threats to wild and domestic animals. All affect the central nervous system, although only rabies is transmitted to man, usually by animal bites, he said.

Infected animals ordinarily die lingering deaths, sometimes over a week or two, during which the animal may become aggressive, depressed, listless or partially paralyzed before lapsing into a coma and dying, according to Dr. Russell.

"It certainly is not a pleasant experience for the animal. It is a long, drawn out process that is very painful for the animal," he explained.

As animal populations grow, the mathematical chance of disease increases as does the likelihood of spreading infections, he said.

Compounding the problem, Dr. Russell added, is the growth of human and domestic pet populations, particularly the trend toward concentrated living in suburban settings near rural areas where contact with wild animals is not uncommon.

Dr. Russell is not taking a position on the proposed amendment, he said, although he "can see no benefit" in banning the leg-hold trap.

Sponsors of the proposed change say the trap is "inhumane" because it allegedly causes animals that are caught to suffer.

Dr. Russell acknowledged that death

Wetter
Weather Spreads

By The Associated Press
Scattered showers and thundershowers were scattered over much of the central United States today, extending as far west as eastern Washington.

The storms affected northern lower Michigan, much of Wisconsin, Minnesota and the Dakotas, southern Nebraska and the high plains of Wyoming and northeast Colorado. Some isolated thundershowers extended over the north and central Rockies into eastern Washington.

Meanwhile, another area affected by thunderstorms and showers reached from southern Louisiana along the Gulf Coast into north and south Florida.

Skies were clear over California, the southern intermountain region and in the South and central Plains. Cloudy skies were dominant through the Gulf Coast.

In the Northeast, most temperatures were in the 60s just after midnight compared to many readings in the 50s and some 40s twenty-four hours earlier. Phillipsburg, Pa. registered 48, however, and a cold front pushing into northern sections of North Dakota and Minnesota lowered temperatures there into the 50s.

One tornado was sighted Tuesday night 40 miles north of Cheyenne, Wyo.

The forecast for today called for thunderstorms scattered over Florida with showers and occasional thundershowers along the Gulf of Mexico coast and the south Atlantic coast. Scattered showers and thundershowers were expected over the Ohio Valley through the western two-thirds of the Great Lakes and the upper Mississippi Valley. Scattered showers and thundershowers were also expected over the Northwest from the upper Missouri Valley across the northern intermountains through southern Washington.

Temperatures were expected to be mild from the upper Great Lakes through the north half of the Rockies and the Pacific Northwest coast. Elsewhere, seasonably warm temperatures were forecast.

Overnight temperatures ranged from 43 at Flagstaff, Ariz. to 86 at Phoenix, Ariz.

School Replica

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Students from Mesa Central High School are constructing a replica of Mesa's first school house built in 1880 — a 20-by-30-foot building of sun-dried adobe bricks — as part of the Mesa School District's Bicentennial project.

Glen Bartel, construction class teacher at Mesa Central, said his students are gaining a lot of experience pouring footings and laying the adobe bricks which eventually will be sprayed with silicon to protect them from the weather.

Utility Reform Nears Ohio Ballot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A utility reform group has cleared the first hurdle in an effort to place four issues on the Nov. 2 ballot, including a nuclear safety proposition.

Ohioans for Utility Reform (OUR) delivered petitions in cardboard boxes Tuesday to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown. Spokesmen for the group said they had 378,000 signatures, exceeding the minimum 307,201 required by law.

No other petitioners appeared, but they have a last chance today to meet the technical deadline. Brown advised petition committees to come a day early because of ambiguity in the filing law.

Meanwhile, a utility-backed group, Citizens for Safe Lower Cost Electricity, called a news conference today to announce plans for a campaign against the amendments proposed by OUR.

"Our initiative drive proves that citizens can work together and make themselves heard," said OUR Chairman Robert Loitz, an Akron businessman. "OUR has built a truly grass roots organization by giving citizens an opportunity to turn their anger over rising utility rates to constructive action."

Loitz promised a "people to people campaign," but conceded OUR at present did not have money to offset the expected media campaign by pro-utility opposition.

The proposed constitutional amendment on nuclear safety would require legislative approval of safety systems before building begins on nuclear power plants. It would not apply to plants already under construction, but to any facility that "does not have all final state approval and a final valid construction license from the federal government" as of last Jan. 1.

The amendment would force utilities to have enough liability insurance to "fully compensate" victims of any damage caused by a nuclear plant.

The OUR ballot package would also provide:

A "lifeline" utility rate for service to guarantee residential consumers minimum amounts of gas and electricity at nominal monthly costs.

—A Residential Utility Consumers Action Group (RUCAG) to speak for consumers in rate cases before the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

A simplification of procedures and easing of requirements for placing initiative petitions on the ballot, without legislative approval.

"History is being made in the state today," Loitz told newsmen at a meeting in front of the State Office Tower. "OUR signature total reflects clearly the citizens demand that we have a vote on utility and initiative reform."

The petitions must still face scrutiny by election officials to determine if all of the signatures are valid. Ballot committees usually aim for at least 400,000 names to build a cushion against invalidations.

If the signatures fall below the required level during the check, Brown will notify OUR that it has 10 additional days to gather more petitions.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Talk controversial issues over in a businesslike, objective fashion, not permitting personalities to enter the fray. Pay no attention to those who dissent "on general principle."

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): You may be up against some unusual competition in your field, so keep your eye on the ball. With your fine intelligence, you should find ways to outrun the best.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Workaday routine may seem more tedious than usual, but evening activities will more than make up for it. Look for exceptionally stimulating activities then.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Some misleading influences. Take all "inside information" and "sure tips" with the proverbial grain of salt.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): As with Cancer, you, too, must be alert to deceptive influences now. Even your closest friends may be telling only half the story. Here's where your innate perceptiveness and intuition can be of great help.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A day calling for your best judgment. You could cause unnecessary misunderstandings by involving yourself in the affairs of others. Don't underestimate the competition either.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Curb emotions and do not let sympathy for one cause blind you to the attributes of another. Take care of undertakings in order, but without anxiety.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Mixed influences. Your efforts may not show immediate returns. They will, however, strengthen your current status. Stress accuracy, precision.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): There may be more than one way to achieve your goal, so keep eyes and ears open. Generally speaking, the strong and decisive try will pay off.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): As the week draws to a close, prepare to revive depleted energies, dwindling resources. Rekindle and optimistic outlook toward the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You usually like to solve your own problems, but don't arbitrarily reject another's idea. It may be more practical than your own.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Mixed influences. Be prompt to reject unethical, or even slightly questionable schemes. Too much is at stake; too much can get out of hand.

YOU BORN TODAY are a highly gifted individual; magnetic of personality and imbued with a love of beauty and the dramatic. If you do not take up the theater, writing or music as a career, all of which are the best outlets for your talents - you will, nevertheless, inject something of beauty and drama into whatever you do. You may teach or preach, buy or sell, design or illustrate - but always with flair. The Leoite usually advances on his own momentum because he is unusually ambitious and constantly finds new incentives to drive him onward but, along the way, he may be too aggressive and too arrogant - both traits to conquer, since they lead to resentment and enmity. Birthdate of: Daniel

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Beach Boys. Ah, the memories. Sun, surf, high school. The rumbling '55 Chevy whose rearview mirror always sported huge white angora dice knitted by a girl named Bobbi.

California music memories. And such is on tap again tonight for those tuning in "The Beach Boys," a one-hour special starring the lads who created what press agents still call "the surf" sound.

It's on NBC, which screened it in advance here. Alas, we missed 15 minutes of it, having been delayed by a one-mile-an-hour headwind created by 300,000 cars up ahead on the freeway.

But what we saw of "The Beach Boys" convinced us it should be given a Grade-A Nifty rating. It's not another nonstop TV concert of flashing lights, leaping troubadours and addled crowds.

Nope, it's an imaginative blend of surreal comedy, quick looks at the private lives and thoughts of the five Beach Boys, mullings of various California cats and assorted happenings, all wrapped around the music and sights of a Beach Boys concert held near here in July.

It's an impressionistic show, intended to create the feel of the easy-going California lifestyle that was part and parcel of Beach Boys music in the early 1960s and still is, to a certain extent.

Sometimes it's simple stuff, a rendition of "Same Song" at a Baptist church in suburban Compton. And then, there's the other kind of stuff.

Like a sun-tanned kid saying "one of the ultimate things is riding a pool" as a pal skateboards around an empty swimming pool. The scene leads to a shot of a young surfer, riding a pee-wee Banzai Pipeline wave at the beach as we hear the Beach Boys sing "Sloop John B."

We also see Brian Wilson, the main brain of the Beach Boys, the guy who dropped out for three years to put his head in order, lying in bed (a running gag) explaining his theory of writing songs.

We later see him again, being hauled out of bed by two California Highway Patrol troopers, members of the "surf squad" who cite him for "failing to surf" and to do same on a state beach.

They whisk him to the beach in a patrol car with siren blaring, lights flashing, a surfboard atop the car as "Surfin' U.S.A.," a Beach Boys biggie, goes full tilt in the background.

This might strike a few viewers as weird, but it makes for enjoyable looking and listening.

Portrait Presented

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Portrait Gallery says it has been presented a portrait of Sarah Porter which was painted in 1896 by Robert B. Brandegee.

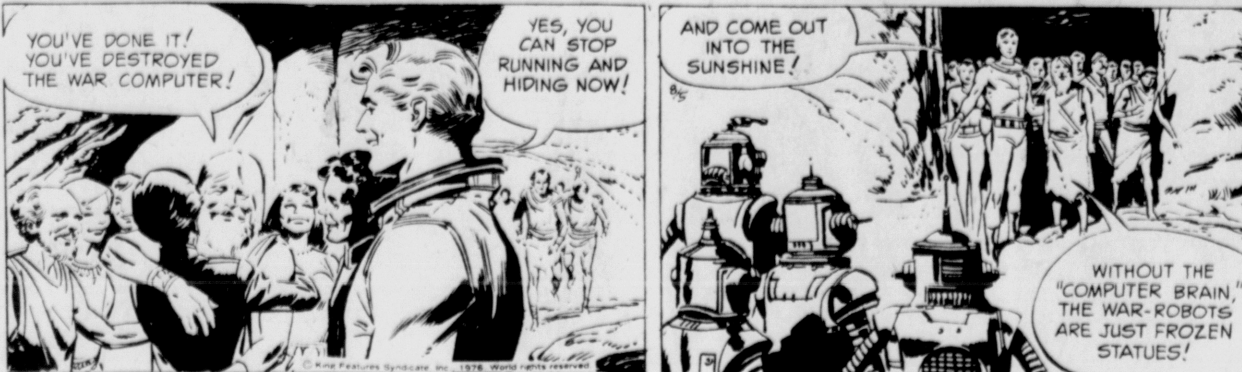

Miss Porter was founder of Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn., and "was a pioneer in the secondary schooling of young women in this country."

O'Connell, Irish statesman; Alfred (Lord) Tennyson, Eng. poet; Robert Mitchum, film star; Lucille Ball, comedienne.

3 Remain Jailed In Kidnaping

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — Three men accused of abducting 26 school children and their bus driver remain jailed on $1 million bail each today as prosecutors maneuver to avoid further open court sessions until trial.

In a move that may soon be moot, Justice Court Judge Howard C. Green scheduled a preliminary hearing Aug. 26 for James and Richard Schoenfeld and Frederick N. Woods.

During a 45-minute hearing Wednesday in a heavily guarded courtroom in this Central California farming community, acting Madera County Dist. Atty. Charles Hoffman said it was likely that the bizarre case would be presented to the new county grand jury for indictments.

Such a strategy would avert the necessity for the state to expose its evidence in open court at a preliminary hearing, thereby sending the case directly from the closed grand jury to Superior Court.

A gag order is in effect on evidence seized against the trio.

Appearing somber and flanked by a dozen armed guards, Woods and James Schoenfeld, both 24, pleaded innocent to 43 felony charges of kidnap and robbery in the July 15 abduction of the children.

The youngsters and bus driver Edward Ray were herded into a poorly ventilated van buried at a Livermore rock quarry owned by Woods' father 95 miles north of here. They dug their way out 18 hours later.

Alluding to a cut hand Ray received during the incident, the white-haired judge told the defendants:

"I want to make you aware that the first count of kidnaping of Frank Edward Ray carries with it a penalty of life imprisonment without parole because he suffered bodily harm."

Woods licked his lips nervously and Schoenfeld stared at the floor.

Mortgage Legislation Given New Shove By Senate Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is an urgent need for legislation that would restructure traditional mortgages to make home ownership a part of the American dream again, according to testimony before a Senate panel.

At a hearing on the new mortgage concept Wednesday, a Senate subcommittee on housing and urban affairs was told that the mortgage proposal could help millions of Americans now priced out of the housing market to buy their own homes.

The panel was told the plan, contained in a bill sponsored by Sen. Edward M. Brooke, R-Mass., could nearly double the number of citizens who own their own homes.

Basically, the bill would allow mortgages to be arranged so that monthly payments increase over the life of the home loan. This would allow a family to make higher mortgage payments years after the initial purchase as family income increased with inflation.

For example, under a traditional 25-year, $30,000 mortgage at 8.5 per cent interest, the homeowner would pay $2,899 per year, not counting such items as insurance and taxes, for the life of the loan.

Under the Brooke formula, the homeowner's payment would start at $2,149 per year and increase to $5,143 in the 25th year.

Kenneth T. Rosen, a Princeton University economist testifying for the measure, said inflation pushing up family income would make it possible to meet the higher payments in later years of the mortgage. But in the crucial first year of the mortgage, the initial monthly payment would be reduced by nearly 25 per cent.

"This will substantially increase the home ownership market, bringing it within reach of the nearly 60 per cent of all American families as contrasted with only one-third of all families who can afford home ownership at present," the economist said.

Legionnaires Worried

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Thomas Allandar and a few friends riveted their attention on the television at the bar of American Legion Post 182. A killer disease makes the evening news very personal.

"It's an eerie feeling," said Allandar, a 50-year-old traveling salesman. "Seeing your friends fall by the wayside, one by one. It's a baffling situation."

"People are upset now," said Allandar. "If you cough sideways or sneeze, you say, 'My God, what am I getting?'"

Allandar is one of 260,000 legionnaires in Pennsylvania. His eerie feeling is shared across the state.

"When is it going to stop?" asked Edward Hoak, state adjutant. "When will it start to level off? Will there be any more?"

Richard Schoenfeld, 22, who surrendered to Alameda County authorities nearly a week before his brother and Woods were apprehended separately on July 29, has also pleaded innocent. But his request Wednesday for a sharp reduction of his $1 million bail was rejected.

The younger Schoenfeld sat with his head bowed as attorney William Gagen described him as "a classic case, a good candidate for bail."

Gagen noted his client's youthful age, his surrender, and "except for a charge of vehicle tampering, he has no criminal record." He urged that the bail be lowered to $50,000.

Hoffman vigorously opposed any reduction. He noted that the younger Schoenfeld visibly blanched when Green told Schoenfeld at his arraignment last week that conviction could carry a maximum penalty of life in prison without parole.

He said Schoenfeld's fresh awareness of the punishment posed "a grave danger, a great possibility Mr. Schoenfeld would fail to appear in court in the future."

"Taking into consideration the seriousness of the charges, the bail will remain at $1 million," Green ruled.

The three men were then flown back to the Alameda County jail.

As a five-car convoy left the new government building in Chowchilla to take the defendants to a nearby airstrip, a crowd of 250 townspeople watched while helmeted sheriff's deputies stood by. There were no incidents.

DRESS WINNER — Judy Reichelderfer, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Reichelderfer, Tarlton, won first place in Clothes for school II.
